TAX REBATE DRIVE BEGUN BY CONGRESS

Democrats Work for Permanent Reduction; Urge Support of G. O. P.

FORGET PARTIES, IS PLEA

Expect Majority for Revision to Come from Both Party Ranks

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1926, by the Post Pub. Co.

Washington—The drive for tax reduction has begun with the opening of congress. Publicly the Democratic spokesmen are calling on the Republicans to "forget partisanship" and do in this session what they have intended to do in the presidential campaign year of 1928.

Privately, the Democratic leaders express the conviction that out of the discussion will come some "constructive measure." This means a belief that amendment of existing rates will be made along with some rebates as outlined by President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon. The chief executive has adopted a more or less neutral position, leaving it to congress to shape the policy. So an unusual situation has presented itself—the minority party laboring with the majority to bring about tax reduction.

QUESTION OF MAJORITY

"If a majority of both houses, whether composed of Republicans or Democrats, should finally agree that tax rates should be revised," said Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Monday, "we will have tax revision. And if a majority can be found to vote for a tax credit as outlined by the president, we will have that too." What the Mississippi senator means is that the majority will not be a party majority but will come out of the ranks of both parties. He and other leaders are confident such a majority exists and will express itself in due season.

The Republican leaders are aware that sentiment within their own ranks has not crystallized. Some are already committing themselves against tax reduction. Among them is Senator Watson of Indiana. The Democrats are insisting that the Republicans know now that a revision of rates can be made, but that they want it to be made in 1928 when presumably there will be more political advantage.

The Democrats, on the other hand, are firmly convinced that any postponement based on political maneuvering will be unpopular and that political advantage will accrue to the party which forces through tax reduction at once.

The Democrats are going to use Secretary Mellon's argument that prosperity results from tax reduction. With the south affected by the recent cotton price decline, the rebate or reduction would, it is reasoned, come in handy and prevent a serious depression. So the southern Democrats are not taking a casual but a constant interest in the tax question and under the leadership of Representative Garner of Texas, and Senator Simmons of North Carolina, have drafted a measure to which they are inviting Republican support.

J. B. MATTHEWS

New Orleans—(P)—The French river schooner Arsene, and its captives, J. B. Matthews, assistant prohibition administrator of the gulf zone and Petty Officer Handley were in Puerto, Mexico, Tuesday where a customs officer had custody. Further word from Matthews was awaited regarding the adventures of the federal men and the crew who fought a duel of wits which involved the aid of the elements and the resources of the United States government and foreign agencies.

The only information available Tuesday was a brief cablegram dispatched by Matthews from the Mexican port in which he reported that the ship was in custody and that he and Handley were safe.

ARMY EXPERTS FAVOR RIVER ROUTE CANAL

Engineering Chief Prefers St. Lawrence to All-American Waterway

Washington—(P)—The army engineering corps has refused to yield in its position that development of the St. Lawrence waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic is more advisable than the proposed All-American route across New York to the Hudson river.

Submitting the adverse report of his engineers on the All-American route, Major General Edgar Jadwin, chief of the corps, asserted that "it is quite possible that ultimately both routes will be required but facts and figures clearly indicate that the St. Lawrence route is at present the more economical investment of the two."

ALL-AMERICAN ROUTE

Submission of the report, however, has not served to alter the views of Chairman Dempsey of the house rivers and harbors committee, who has been an ardent advocate of the All-American route, which would pass through New York district which he represents in congress.

He contends that the engineers "ignore" the point "that the All-American route will reduce traffic congestion in years to come and promote domestic trade" and "failed to take into consideration that five-sixths of St. Lawrence water power belongs to Canada."

The conclusion of the engineers who studied the projects, General Jadwin asserted, was that the St. Lawrence route would "afford better relief for the midwest and is a better investment for the United States as a navigation proposition."

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION CONDUCTS HEARINGS HERE

Commissioner V. Wrabetz and Reporter E. C. Cover, Wisconsin Industrial commission, conducted several formal and informal hearings at the courthouse Tuesday morning in personal injury compensation petitions against plants of the district.

Three cases were brought in informally and testimony taken. It was expected that all of the formal day calendar would be disposed of before night, Mr. Cover stated.

The commissioner and reporter will be here Wednesday to complete taking of testimony in 14 cases scheduled for the 2 days. None of the cases present an unusual situation, it was declared, and the majority of the hearings resulted only in routine report being filed with the commission. No serious injuries are involved in any of those matters submitted up to noon Tuesday.

REVERSE DECISION ON FLORIDA LAND SALES

Madison—(P)—Florida land propaganda and sales, as carried on by the Durham Tropical company, was scored by the supreme court Tuesday when a decision of the Dane-co circuit court in revoking an order of the real estate brokers, denying the company a license, was reversed by the higher court.

JURY NAMES ERDMAN OLSON AS SLAYER

DOHENY ILL; JUDGE HALTS OIL HEARING

Expect Wealthy Oil Man Again to Appear in Court During Week

Washington, D. C.—(P)—A turn for the worse in the condition of Edward L. Doheny Tuesday halted his trial here on a charge of conspiring with Albert B. Fall in the leasing of the Elk Hills oil reserve.

The 70-year-old oil magnate has been suffering for a week with an infected arm and Monday night a second operation was performed. His physician ordered him to remain in bed at least for Tuesday, but said that by Wednesday or Thursday the patient should be in condition to again appear in court.

SESSION ADJOURNED

Upon presentation of a physician's certificate at the outset of Tuesday's session, Justice Hoehling adjourned the trial until such time as Mr. Doheny should be able to resume his place in the courtroom.

Despite the second operation performed in the oil man's hotel room, he was in considerable pain Tuesday and was running an appreciable temperature. The doctors said they saw no immediate danger.

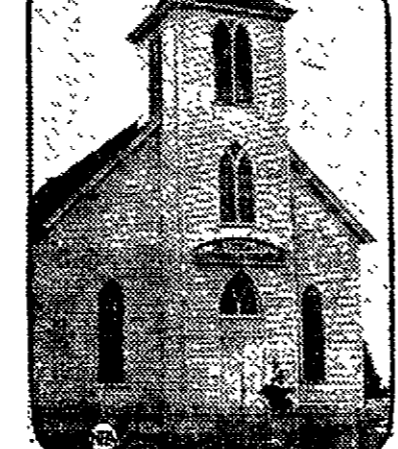

The infection first was lanced on Friday night. He was taken to bed immediately after the Saturday noon adjournment, and remained under constant treatment over the weekend. Monday he was in his accustomed place at the trial. His trouble now is diagnosed as a carbuncle.

Frank Hogan, chief of the defense attorneys, told the court Tuesday that his client might be able to return Wednesday morning, but no definite time for reconvening was set. Should the illness continue, Justice Hoehling plans to examine the law on the point whether the trial might be resumed without the presence of one of the defendants.

EXPECT TROOPS TO EVACUATE GERMANY

Stresemann Optimistic After Conference With Allied Representatives

Geneva—(P)—Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German foreign secretary, believed Tuesday that Germany's request for the abolition of inter-ally military control was nearer realization than ever before.

His optimism was the outgrowth of a conference of representatives of Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy on the subject. When the conference adjourned Mr. Vandervelde, the Belgian foreign minister, went so far as to say "an agreement will be reached."

The official communique said: "We are satisfied with the progress made" it said. "We will have further meetings and hope that an agreement will be reached."

QUESTION WOMAN IN DEATH OF HUSBAND

Oklahoma City, Okla.—(P)—Mrs. Luther M. Bishop was held in the county jail Tuesday for further questioning in connection with the slaying Sunday of her husband Luther Bishop, a state detective, known throughout the southwest for his activities in breaking up bandit gangs.

Discovery of the two pistols which Bishop always carried or kept near him, in his home, resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Bishop Monday and caused county authorities to turn from the theory that gangsters entered the house as the family slept and shot the detective to death after taking the fire arms.

The pistols were found by a coroner's jury in an oatmeal container. One had been fired six times and the other twice. Seven bullets struck Bishop, the first apparently while he was asleep.

WILLIAMS REPORTS ON BETTER CITIES REPORTS

Audrey W. Williams, general secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, will present a complete analysis of the Better Cities' recent reports for Appleton to local residents Tuesday evening. Committee members who worked in the contest, city officials and members of certain city commissions will be invited to hear Mr. Williams' report. The meeting will be held at 6:15 at Hotel Northern.

Mr. Williams will go into minute detail to show in what departments Appleton is weak and where it is strong. Group meetings of the various local committees with Mr. Williams have been arranged for Wednesday by Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

HOLD BURIAL SERVICE FOR GIRL TUESDAY

Missing Youth Asked Clara to Bring Money for Wedding Trip

Prairie Du Chien—(P)—Clara Dorothy Olson, whose body was removed last week from a rude grave on Battle Ridge hill to be revealed as the victim of a murderer, now lies in a hallowed consecrated grave under the spires of the little Norwegian church at Utica, which she attended for many years.

Her body, bearing wounds which pathologists held had been dealt with a heavy instrument was lowered into the grave in the church yard Tuesday following simple services.

Prairie du Chien—(P)—The brand of murder has been put on Erdman Olson, missing college student, by a coroner's jury, as its assessment in the stark drama of Clara Olson's death.

Erdman, sweetheart of Clara and son of a wealthy tobacco planter, was named as the slayer late Monday. The coroner's jury concluded, after hearing a letter sent to Clara by the youth on the day of her disappearance, that the youth deliberately plotted her death, brought her from her home with a pretense of marrying her before she became the mother of a babe she was expecting.

ERDMAN AT DANCE

The inquiry developed that Clara disappeared Sept. 5 and that a posse found her body buried in a hastily dug grave half a mile from Erdman's home, Dec. 1. The inquest also brought out that Erdman Olson, whose 18 years were four less than those of his sweetheart, had attended a dance at Seneca three miles from Clara's home, the night of Sept. 9, and that he had driven to the girl's farm home at about the hour she vanished.

This evidence was crowned, in a sensational climax to the inquiry with introduction of a letter found in the girl's dress when the body was recovered. It was from Erdman to Clara, outlining plans for their flight and marriage, and instructing the girl to meet him at the dance if she could or in front of her home at midnight, Sept. 9, if she could not be at the dance.

ASKED TO BRING MONEY

He told her to "bring all the money you can if you want to make a nice trip of it," warned her to burn all his letters, and cautioned her that "if you do not do as I say your chance will be shot and I might be a scarce hubby."

Clara, testimony indicated, obeyed him to the letter and went trusting to her death. The theory of States Attorney G. H. S. Earl is that the boy planned the crime carefully, dug the grave before he went to the Olson home the night of Sept. 9 and then carried the girl after he met her, to the spot where the grave was prepared, clubbing her to death and burying her body.

CHRIST OLSON, CLARA'S FATHER, SAID

Christ Olson, Clara's father said that the girl had from $7 to $8 when she left home. Her purse, found with the last letter from her sweetheart on her body, was empty.

WALES MAY SPEND HIS CHRISTMAS IN SPAIN

Madrid, Spain—(P)—The prince of Wales will spend Christmas week in Spain, says the newspapers. Information is coming in from Madrid that he will live in a private suite in one of Madrid's hotels.

Recently there have been rumors that the prince of Wales might marry Princess Beatrice, eldest daughter of the king and queen of Spain. These rumors have met with denial. Princess Beatrice is 17 years old.

ILLINOIS POLICE SUBDUED GUNMEN WITH TEAR GAS

Chicago—(P)—Police and possessors of a dozen west side suburbs participated in an attack with gas bombs and guns on the freight car stronghold on the foreign track workers in a desolate railroad yard early today after two men, one a policeman, had been slain, and two men wounded, in a preliminary skirmish.

The dead are Policeman Lyman J. Stahl, 28, of Melrose Park, a suburb, and an unidentified railroad worker said by police to be of Mexican extraction. Policeman Charles Kohlwinz was wounded and another member of the besieged force was also the victim of gunfire before the marauders crawled from gas filled cars and were captured.

The scene of the fight is in an isolated area, a mile and a half west of Melrose Park, in the Proviso township railroad yards. A settlement of foreign workers used seven freight cars on a siding as a home.

First news of the trouble came in an alarm over the telephone to the Melrose Park station that a woman had been assaulted by a group of intoxicated men in the vicinity.

Policeman Stahl and his partner, Kohlwinz, went to the scene in a police car and as they walked up the tracks toward the camp a volley of pistol shots was directed at them. Stahl's body was riddled with lead and he fell mortally wounded and two of the men ran toward the policemen waving smoking pistols.

Kohlwinz dropped one of the oncoming men but was himself wounded by the other, when the officer dropped to the ground to empty his gun and kill the second of the railroad workers. Kohlwinz then sought cover from the fire coming from the freight cars.

Three squads of Chicago detectives, armed with tear gas bombs and shotguns, aided in the assault, which resulted in the capture of 33 men and one woman.

Storm Toll In East U.S. And Canada Is 16 Lives

New York — (P) — Northeastern states and eastern Canada Tuesday counted a toll of 16 dead from record-breaking early season temperatures and snowfall. Ice blockades threaten to tie up lake and river shipping for the winter.

There were 12 dead in New England alone, while New York recorded three and New Jersey one. Considerable suffering was also reported. The larger cities spent thousands of dollars for the removal of snow, which in places reached a depth of 12 inches. Itail and auto traffic was rapidly approaching normal, however.

Fourteen steamers were icebound in the St. Lawrence river in Quebec. 13 vessels were wrecked off Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and fishing and large fleets in several ports were badly crippled.

The port of Bangor, Me., was officially closed and ferry service from Bangor to Brewer suspended for the winter. Moosehead Lake, Me., was closed to navigation also.

New York city, Albany, Rochester and Boston suffered greatly from traffic tieup due to the heavy snow fall. Boston's fall of 10 inches was the heaviest pre-Christmas snow on record since 1901.

MESSAGE TEXT

Washington, D. C.—Following is the text of President Coolidge's message to congress:

In reporting to the Congress the state of the Union, I find it impossible to characterize it other than one of general peace and prosperity. In some quarters our diplomacy is vexed with difficult and as yet unsolved problems, but nowhere are we met with armed conflict. If some occupations and areas are not flourishing, in none does there remain any acute chronic depression. What the country requires is not so much new policies as a steady continuation of those which are already being crowned with such abundant success. It can not be too often repeated that in common with all the world we are engaged in liquidating the war.

In the present short session no great amount of new legislation is possible, but in order to comprehend what is

30 INDICTED BY JURORS IN FOREST PROBE

Judge Henry Graess Presides in Absence of Judge W. B. Quinlan

Crandon—(P)—The report of the Forest-co grand jury meeting here Tuesday before Judge Henry Graess of Green Bay, returned 31 indictments naming 30 defendants. The indictments returned were for burglary, robbery, embezzlement, forgery, liquor law violation and arson. The names of the defendants will be made public when arrested, the court said.

Bernard Coy and C. S. Crawford, indicted here at a special session a few weeks ago were sentenced when brought before Judge Graess Tuesday morning. Coy pleaded guilty to the charge, following his confession of the robbery of the Zetzel general store here. Crawford was meted out a term of one to eight years at Waupun and Coy received a one to three year term at Green Bay reformatory.

The jury was called at the request of the county board of supervisors early last August and has returned as many as 45 indictments and has sent three men to the state prison at Waupun. The county board favored the investigation by one vote.

Those who probably will be sentenced by Judge Graess are Bernard Coy and C. S. Crawford, held in jail here following Coy's confession to the robbery of a Crandon clothing store. Crawford's wife is being detained by authorities as an accessory.

Stanley Kempa, of Armstrong Creek, was sentenced by Judge Graess to 90 days in jail or a fine of $100, following his indictment of liquor law violation.

REITZNER LIQUOR CASE UP TO JURY

May Hold Bartender on Charge of Destroying Evidence

The case of Nick Reitzner, charged with possession and sale of liquor, went to a jury in the higher branch of municipal court shortly before noon Tuesday. Judge Theodore Berg presided.

Early indications pointed to the possibility of a disagreement, court attaches believed.

Mr. Reitzner's defense was built up on an assertion that no liquor was kept or sold at his place of business on N. Richmond-st.

The state put in testimony seeking to prove that Tony Mikel, a bartender, had deliberately destroyed a quantity of evidence when state prohibition enforcement officers and Appleton police raided the soft-drink parlor.

According to the prohibition enforcement men they believe that liquor was being sold and that a pitcher containing the alleged contraband had been deliberately tipped over into a sewer drain when they entered the place.

Mikel is facing a charge of obstructing the work of the enforcement group in a complaint declaring him to have been an agent in the destruction of evidence. Whether the bartender will come to trial largely depends on what disposition the jury makes of his employers case, it is believed.

CHARGE EMPLOYE WITH $225 EMBEZZLEMENT

S. V. McCarthy, 606 N. Appleton-st, charged with embezzlement of $225 from the Wisconsin Distributing Co., pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday afternoon and was held for trial on Dec. 21.

Bond was set at $1,000. It was indicated that it would be supplied.

According to the complaint, Mr. McCarthy was salesman in the employ of the local produce company and appropriated this sum while acting as a representative of the company.

TEMPERATURE HIGH IN SPITE OF STORM

Snow, rain and sleet followed each other in rapid succession Tuesday when the temperature in Appleton and vicinity rose to 30 degrees above zero. The highest it has been for several days. Indications were that the mercury would reach at least 35 degrees by Tuesday afternoon and that the sleet, rain and snow would continue during the evening.

The forecast is cloudy Tuesday evening and Wednesday, probably rain, sleet or snow, no decided change in temperature.

100 CABBAGE GROWERS AT CONFERENCE HERE

More than 100 members of the Appleton Cabbage Growers association were expected to gather at the courthouse Tuesday afternoon for their annual meeting.

Talks by state department of agriculture experts on cabbage growing problems, with special reference to remedial agents to be employed against the ravages of maggots, were to form a major part of the conference.

Seed was to be on sale at a standard price of $2.50 a pound, or $2.25 a pound if purchased at the convention. Approximately 1,000 pounds of seed was to be sold, it was expected.

County Agent Robert Amundson arranged the details of the gathering, which was to be held in the circuit court room.

REFUSE LICENSE REFUND IN INSURANCE HEARINGS

Madison—(P)—Refunds on license fees paid under protest by the New York Life Insurance Co., the Northwestern Life Insurance Co. of Wisconsin, and Mutual Life Insurance Co. were refused by the supreme court Tuesday. The companies alleged the fees were paid illegally in account of premiums received in the state. The refunds have totalled about $20,000.

OPPOSES PLAN OF PERMANENT TAX DECREASE

Suggests Congress Work for "Sound Solution" of Farm Marketing Problem

FAVORS LAKE WATERWAY

World Court and Mexican Question Missing; Asks Dry Law Enforcement

BULLETIN

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Senator Trammell of Florida, Tuesday made good his threat to introduce a resolution for repeal of the senate's ratification of the wrold court protocol.

BULLETIN

Washington—(P)—Already heading into a traffic jam on the second day of its new session, congress was given a new list of things to think about Tuesday by President Coolidge. In his annual message the chief executive put taxes and farm relief at the head of a long series of subjects which he thought might well receive attention before adjournment on March 4.

Following his custom of last year, Mr. Coolidge sent his message to capitol-hill by messenger, and it was read by clerks in the senate and house shortly after noon.

At the same time he added to the crowded senate calendar more than 1,000 nominations to public office including many postmasters throughout the country.

Washington—(P)—Some form of temporary tax relief, and "a sound solution," if possible, of the farm marketing problem were urged by President Coolidge Tuesday in his annual message to congress.

He left the specific methods to the legislators themselves, stipulating only that a prospective $383,000,000 treasury surplus should not be regarded as warranting a permanent tax revision; and that in approaching the farm relief problem congress should shun anything savoring of price-fixing.

The president also suggested that steps should be taken "at an early day" to transfer the Philippines from the military to the civil branch of the government, to propose that something be done to end the "great inconvenience and expense" caused by lowering the level of the Great Lakes; renewed his stand for the protective tariff and for the complete observance of prohibition; again pledged his administration to economy; and laid down a long list of other suggestions, although conceding that in the short session no extensive program of general legislation would be possible.

NO MENTION OF COURT

The message contained no mention of the world court, a subject which he said in his Kansas City speech he would not again submit to the senate. Nor was there any direct reference to Mexico.

His suggestions on other questions included:

- Broadening and strengthening of the Federal agricultural agencies.
- Revision of the livestock grazing regulations.
- Continuation of reclamation developments.
- Development of Muscle Shoals with cheaper fertilizers in view.
- Development of the Mississippi and

RAIL RECEIVERS WIN IN SUIT OF EMPLOYEE

Madison—(P)—Receivers for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad were winners in a case appealed to the supreme court when a decision Tuesday reversed an award of $250 to Harry Mandell, said to have been attacked by a railroad employee. The case was appealed from the La Crosse-co circuit court.

AMATEURS REVEAL NEAR PROFESSIONAL SKILL IN OPERETTA

High School Players Score Success in "Belle of Bar- celona"

Miss Margaret Heckle and Mark Catlin, who played the leading roles in "The Belle of Barcelona", Appleton high school operetta, presented at Fischer's Appleton theatre Monday evening. The comedy part carried by Robert Matz was taken well and received with enthusiasm. The entire house was sold for the production.

Costumes and settings were Spanish except for those of Mark Catlin who was Lieut. Wright, custom inspector for the United States; Captain Stark, Captain Colton of the American cruiser; Robert Matz, companion of the lieutenant; and the chorus of United States marines.

Music and dancing in the play were exceptional for amateur work, and the orchestra, which accompanied the numbers was well trained.

Miss Ruth McKennan, of the public speaking department at the school, directed the dramatic work, and Carl McKee, the soloists, choruses and orchestra.

Other leading characters in the production were Miss Beatrice Segal and Richard Joyce, the parents of the heroine; Miss Evelyn Kreiss her sister; William Meyer, the villain; Robert Mueller, manager of the father's plantation; Miss Dona Herrmann, an English governess who eventually marries the comedian; Robert Mitchell and George Beckley, student friends; and Miss Phyllis Orstein and Miss Dorothy Drabheim, friends of the heroine.

A special dancing chorus of 12 girls did solo and novelty numbers. Members of the chorus were: Sybille Plank, Trudy Weber, Eileen Dutcher, Lucille Kranhold, Mae Bogan, Leona Capitaine, Marie Gillette, Florence Nelson, Dorothy Schubert, Berenice Parker, Helen Snyder.

The chorus of United States marines added to the humorous entertainment of the Irish comedy. The eight men were: Alois Liehner, Norbert Pfefferle, Carl Kunitz, Ray Koepke, Daniel Steinberg, Ruben Getchow, Francis Rooney, Charles Schaefer.

Members of the ensemble which served as a background for the Spanish scenes were: Marie Hertmiller, Dorothy Brandt, Gwendolyn Plunton, Adeline Wettstein, Hildegard Wetzel, Margaret La Plante, Margaret Crabb, Agnes Schubert, Geneva Nichols, Marcelle Elmer, Annette Heller, Eleanor Steenis, Anita Ehke, Marie Konz, Gertrude Kopiske, Marguerite Burke, Margaret Becker, Beatrice Harth, Helen Werner, Dorothy Calhoun, Rosella Krueger, Mary Rickler, Ruth Hilkowitz, Vivian Mead, Ruth Lyman, Frances Perrine, Margaret Meyer, Lorraine Shaw, Lucille Matthes, Elvera Beglinger, Winifred Meyer, Charles Earle, Carl Babcock, Francis McAllister, Winifred Schultz, Rudolf Gauerke, Roger Clark, Merlin Pitt, Carl Wettengel, Nathan Spector, Carol Richmond, William Lyons, Norman Johnson, Desmond Schade, Donald McMahon, Robert Reckner, Kenneth Downer, Clarence Lemke.

The orchestra of 29 pieces consisted of: first violin, Janet Carnecross, Lois Kohn, Eleanor Voeks, Chester Davis, second violin, Beatrice Miller, Duane Fish, Wilmar Tsch, Edwin Rooks; cello, Carl Jebe and Wilmar Franck; double bass, Wilder Schmalz; clarinet, Romona Hueseman, Herbert Morsholder; accompanist, Marie Fountain and Virginia Baker; cornet, Herbert Lutz; bass, Leo Schiebler; trombone, Sterling Schmalz; drums, Charles Brinckley.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

The following applications for marriage licenses were filed Monday afternoon with County Clerk John E. Hantschel: Tony Budweiser, Menasha, to wed Eleanor Knoll, Appleton; Roger Meissner to wed Cordelia Stammer, both of Appleton.

Don't Have COLDS —Carry protection in your pocket!

Why suffer from disagreeable colds when you can carry protection in handy form right in your vest pocket or handbag.

If you want to be free from colds all winter, get a 50c tube of Kloxex from your druggist and carry it with you wherever you go. At the first sign of a cold, use it quickly. Nature always gives you warning. Sneezing, itchy nose, watery eyes, chills, runny nose, sore throat, all are danger signals to which wise folks pay heed. You don't have to have a cold if you will take simple precautions.

Kloxex is the handiest form of cold protection. It comes in a slender, inconspicuous tube that slips right into your pocket or handbag. Don't be without it! It's the only cold remedy that's safe. If you are subject to colds, it's real health insurance. Any druggist can supply you, and will be glad to recommend it.

SIX SLAYERS ARE DENIED PARDONS

Governor Dismisses Murder- ers' Pleas for Re- lease

Madison—(P)—Six murderers were denied pardons by Governor John J. Blaine as a result of the last pardon hearing of his administration. It was announced here Monday.

The application of Alvin L. Jensen, convicted in the Dane county circuit court of the murder of Robert Jaeger, Sauk county hermit was denied and he will be compelled to serve the remainder of his life sentence in the state prison at Waupun.

Governor Blaine also denied the application of John Galloway an accomplice of Jensen in the crime, and Galloway will continue to serve his sentence of 25 years. Both men were convicted August 2, 1923.

Clemency was denied Joseph Kaminski, convicted in circuit court of Marinette county of murder in the second degree. He was sentenced to 25 years in the state prison, February 17, 1917.

The application of Rudolph Jessner, confessed bootlegger who killed Patrolman Palmer Thompson of the Madison police force was denied by the governor. Jessner was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state prison, April 14, 1926.

The applications of Jacob Kafetka, convicted in 1921 in Marathon county circuit court of murder and Kornel Kutnuk, sentenced in 1914 for first degree murder in the Kewaunee county circuit court were also denied.

MEASLES EPIDEMIC IN COUNTY IS DYING OUT

tering cases of the same disease throughout the county, and there is some scarlet fever, according to reports.

Special efforts are being made by county health authorities to enforce quarantine laws and to spread the gospel of common sense in observance of these rules.

Enough laxity in enforcing the law was brought to light to rouse the ire of a state medical inspector last week but it is believed the alleged careless condition is being rectified. It was declared.

All Around Wisconsin

Otto Sager, 32, cheesemaker in a factory near Monroe, was fatally injured Sunday in the strangest accident on record in the local dairy industry. A cream separator, with parts revolving at tremendous speed, broke and jammed. It is believed, bursting the machine and sending parts of the heavy cast iron protection jacket in all directions. One chunk of iron hit Sager, rupturing an artery. Other chunks crashed into walls, pierced a tank nearby and tore up some frame steps. Sager dragged himself toward the living quarters of the factory, where his wife carried him to bed. He died two hours later from loss of blood. Sager was operated by steam, reaching to turn it off when the accident happened.

The strength of two fellow patients was all that saved Walter Schallert from jumping through a third story window at Emergency hospital, Milwaukee, early Monday, Saturday night, having been the victim of a heart attack. Shortly after midnight he arose from his bed, went to a window nearby and smashed it with his fist. The crash of the glass awakened two other men near him and they saw Schallert trying to climb out upon the sill. Both grabbed him and managed to pull him back on the floor after a struggle.

Menominee were bound over to the January term of the Menominee Circuit court with bond fixed at $5,000 each. The girl asserted that the youths administered ether to her while they attacked her the night of Armistice day.

BADGERS HELP U.S. GIVE NAMES TO ITS TOWNS AND RIVERS

Government Undertakes Huge Task of Preparing National Gazetteer

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Washington, D. C. — The United States Government is engaged in compiling the place names of the United States. The United States Geographic Board today announced that all the amusingly named hamlets in the United States are to be christened officially by the United States government.

The hundreds of thousands of names bestowed on geographical units and natural objects are to be compiled which means that they must be reviewed for authenticity, proper spelling and in many places propriety and convenience. An effort will be made to evolve new names for places that now have none. Then all will be put forth in an official gazetteer.

Three Wisconsin men have been named to care for the Badger state's part of the work. They are Prof. E. P. Beaman, state geologist, University of Wisconsin; John Callahan, superintendent of public instruction, and E. E. Eitner, chief of the legislative reference library.

"It is a big job," says Frank Bond, chairman of the United States Geographic Board, which is to supervise the work. "The board will need a lot of voluntary help and we hope to help develop widespread and constructive interest in place names. The history of the nation is reflected largely in these names."

Appeal is to be made to the Governors of the states to assist in quickening sources of the vast amount of material which the board must gather and sift. The gazetteer is to contain the name authentically attested even to the spelling, of every hamlet, village, town and other geographical unit, as well as that of every creek, river, bay, inlet, mountain or natural object having or deserving a name.

Much of the task will entail compiling only, as in the majority of cases names already exist in undisputed forms. No doubt, however, when the board comes to pass on these officially there will be many demands that old names be discarded and new ones adopted. Even without the provocation of a forthcoming gazetteer the board regularly has handled many requests of that sort.

In formulating the official gazetteer changes probably will be desirable in some instances on account of confusing duplications and sometimes truly objectionable terminology. Recently, for example, the board accepted a new name for Little Smoky Creek in Wisconsin because of the claim that the old name carried a harmful suggestion.

In no other country in the world is there such a tremendous duplication of place names as in the United States. There are, for example, literally scores of Deer and Wildcat creeks. There are a dozen or more Lookout mountains, at least two of them being of note historically and otherwise. Towns named after famous American and well-known European places are legion, and this too results in using the same name more than ever.

There are cases of hamlets bearing the same name in the same county and many more of neighboring streams being identified by the same name. These confusions made little difference in the early days of the country, but now, with intensified communication, they are befuddling in many ways. They are particularly bothersome in map making of the kind done by the United States Geological Survey.

Appleton Artist's Home Filled With Works Of Art

"Art Wins Hearts" is the title of a statue by William Scheer, 329 W. Prospect-ave, which is on display in the window of Meyer-Seeger's music store. The group was designed and executed by Mr. Scheer during the past year and is a real work of art.

It is composed of two figures, the first a young man sitting beside a post decorating a piece of pottery and the second is the figure of a young woman who has become enraptured by the fine work the young artist is doing. The statue is carved from a solid piece of Vermont marble and is 42 inches high. The young woman's figure is 23 inches high and the young man's figure is 16 inches high.

The statue is fitted on top an oak pedestal, which was hand carved from a solid block of wood. The sides of the pedestal have been ornamented with figures and designs and the whole pedestal has been artistically decorated. The pedestal is 23 inches high.

Mr. Scheer is a church decorator of fame and has made his home in Appleton for the last 40 years. He has decorated many of the larger churches in the Fox River Valley. Mr. Scheer designs his own church decorations and plans the work for his assistant artists.

He was born in Cologne, Germany, and was trained by his father who was an expert church decorator. Mr. Scheer spent many years studying the decorative arts of many of Europe's most famous cathedrals. He came to America in 1884 and traveled through the southern states for a time before settling in Appleton. He is noted throughout the United States as a church decorator and has received invitations to decorate large temples in many of the big cities in the United States.

Mr. Scheer's home is a museum of art. It contains oil and water paintings, decorated china ware, hand carved and decorated furniture, carvings and sculptures, sketches, fresco work and statues.

Merchants contemplating special holiday displays are offered the services of Louis Luebke, fire department electrician and inspector, in making safe any uses of electricity calculated to increase the attractiveness of the shops and merchandise.

The electrician declares that a safe holiday season is possible without impairing in any way the effectiveness of displays.

Often, it was pointed out, inexperience in handling electric wiring has led to serious fires and the defects can be discovered on ly by an expert. Defective wiring also has a tendency to defeat the purpose of the exhibition, it was stated.

Gifts of Year-'round Comfort

The gifts one gets the greatest thrill out of giving are those one knows will endure for years. The frivolous thing whose charm fades in a day is a flimsy gift against the gift of furniture that provides year-'round comfort. Remember with furniture this year.

Mother's Favorite

Mother's dream of a Chair for her own private use is a Chair like this, trim and small, wonderfully comfortable. She deserves a Chair of her very own, and an exceedingly smart Chair like this one covered in tapestry. $28 and $32.

Cozy Arm Chair

Families often "get together" and plot to take the head of the house completely off his feet with some really splendid gift. This year they may consider a grand Chair of bright colors. $56.

Wandering Table

A three-legged Table that reveals a willingness to wander where'er you may want it—to a place beside a friendly chair, to the davenport or window seat—is priced at $8.75. Walnut and gumwood.

A Blithe Servant

Some friend of yours—let's say the most enthusiastic hostess you know—will thrill to a gift like this. Not only a willing servant, but a gay one in its decorated lacquer finish. $22.

Handsome Fitment

Having decided upon the furniture gift, make sure that it is a gift of beauty and tastefulness, something as worth while as this graceful Telephone Set. A highly practical gift. Walnut and gumwood, $35.

VETERANS WANT
LEGIONAIRE TO BE POSTMASTERAdopt Resolution Urging Consideration for Former Serviceman

Neenah—Times P. Hawley post of American Legion at the Monday evening meeting of the S. A. Cook armory, urged an executive man who is seeking the office of postmaster in Neenah which office will be vacant at the expiration of J. B. Schindler's term in February. Dr. Ronald Bodewitz, William Campbell and Robert Johnson were appointed as a committee to draft a resolution asking that an ex-serviceman be considered for the position. The resolution will be forwarded to Wisconsin congressmen, senators, elect postoffice of fields and President Calvin Coolidge in Washington. At the present time there is one ex-serviceman, J. B. Schindler, the present postmaster seeking reappointment. It is said James P. Tzen and Lawrence Lambart will seek the appointment. Both are ex-servicemen.

The formal presentation of medals won by the Neenah post team in the national rifle championships in Philadelphia last week, was made by E. L. Smith. Those receiving medals were Lynn Stup, F. L. Schindler, Milo Hatt, Jack Meyer, Archie Jones and Chris Krum. In the shotgun game the prizes were won by Leonard Koepke and Emil Blom. Supper was served by the ladies of the auxiliary.

BOOSTERS PREPARED TO MEET TERRIBLE SWEDS

Neenah—Final practice was held Monday evening by the Neenah Boosters basketball team for the game Wednesday evening in S. A. Cook armory, with Olson's Terrible Swedes of Coffeyville, Kans. The Swede team is considered one of the strongest to visit this vicinity this season, coming with a record of 10 wins and 3 losses. The game was played last year by C. M. Olson, left forward of the aggregation has a back hand throw which has made the player noted. He will share the forward position with Stewart. Campbell will be at center; Marteney and Nels will be the guards. The Neenah team will have Ehrigott, Madison Jorgenson, Schneider, Much and Wall in the lineup. Dancing will follow the game.

TRINITY QUINT LOSES TO APPLETON SQUAD

Neenah—Trinity Lutheran basketball team was defeated in its opening game Monday evening at the parish hall by the Appleton Citizens basketball team by a score of 34 and 29. The Neenah team failed to get started until the last half when it tallied 24 points to the visitors 17. The game was largely attended. Appleton had practically the same strong lineup as last year. # URGES USE OF ELECTRICITY ON FARM SIMILAR TO FACTORY

CAN HELP INCREASE OUTPUT AND REDUCE COSTS, EXPERT SAYS

Farmer Will Derive Fullest Benefit from Use of Power in Business, Claim

Chicago—(AP)—The American farmer will derive fullest benefit from power production when he uses electricity as it is used in the city factories—for every possible purpose—the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation was told here Monday by R. F. Pack, Minneapolis, president of the National Electric Light association.

He said it was an economic impossibility to deliver small amounts of electricity at an acceptable price. The failure of most rural electric lines, according to him, was due to the fact that farmers limited the use of current almost exclusively to lighting.

FARM IS FACTORY
“The farm must be regarded as a factory,” he continued, “and electricity applied in a multiplicity of ways to increase output and cut labor costs the same as has been done in city factories.”

Experiments carried on by cooperative committees of various rural interests, he said, have shown at least a hundred practical uses for electricity on the farm.

He pointed out such things as hen-house lighting stimulating egg production, electric heat saving lives of baby pigs; electrically pumped water adding to the dairy check; and electric machinery taking the place of farm hands.

Eventual general use of electricity by the farmer, however, he asserted, requires development of a comprehensive plan by agricultural colleges, manufacturers of electric and farm implements, and other rural agencies.

FARMS OF FACTORY TYPE
Minneapolis—As electric lines are extended over the rural sections of the country, large factory-type farms specializing in only one line will spring up, the small isolated farmer will lose ground and new period of centralization of farming and decentralization of industry will begin.

This is the remarkable future seen ahead for American farming by Prof. E. A. Stewart of the division of agricultural engineering of the University of Minnesota.
It will be a future dependent on electricity, just as the factory depends on it today. It is a prediction all the more remarkable in view of the predictions by others of smaller farms with more concentrated farming practices, as exemplified in Europe today.

ON ACTUAL TEST
Dr. Stewart bases this prophesy on actual experiments with farms and farmers in the Red Wing district in Minnesota, where electricity has played an important role. There farmers have joined hands in production and in methods of handling their crops. The result has been saving of time, labor and money, with increased profits to the farmers.

All this improvement, however, awaits a change in the farmer's viewpoint, in which he is willing to try new methods, especially those in which electricity is concerned, Dr. Stewart declares.

“The inherent stability of a farmer,” he says, “is a desirable asset, but coupled with his stability is a type of nature that makes him confident of the value of present practices as compared to new methods in spite of the fact that the whole industry is complaining about something being wrong with agriculture.”

It is in electricity that Dr. Stewart sees the way out.

TO BETTER FARMING
“Our work at Red Wing,” he says, “has given results which indicate that there are several ways of making electricity earn enough money to pay its cost and even more. This earned income may be in the value of labor saved, in the reduction of operating costs, or in added value of products, due to quality, quantity or both.”

“The use of electricity will frequently assist the farmer in adopting better farming practices.”
“Electricity on the farm will change the farm practices and will change the type of farming in just the same way that it changed city factory methods, city industry and even office routine.”

Electric plowing in Germany, Dr. Stewart points out, is tending to enlarge farms, causing custom plowing with many farmers hiring the plowing to be done for them. He sees the same possibility in this country.

GOOD ROADS BIG AID
TO FARM MARKETING

Chicago—Good roads have opened up a new avenue of marketing to the farmer and have given him a quick and inexpensive means for selling his products.

Road-side markets in the rural districts of the United States sell produce to the value of more than $2, 116,000 a month direct to motorists, according to the American Road Builders' Association.

This $25,000,000 annual business for the farmer includes only the produce purchased direct from small stands operated along the highways, usually by the small truck farmer.

The sale of fresh eggs, milk and butter to urban residents who drive to the farm to buy their fresh foods would easily bring the figure to more than $50,000,000 annually, according to the estimate.

The use that farmers make of highways to bring their products direct to city markets by means of their own trucks is so extensive that actual figures on the value of crops marketed in this way are difficult to ascertain.

CLEAN ENOUGH TO EAT IN

Cow barns aren't in common demand as banquet halls, except for the cattle, but the one owned by A. C. Wadley, at Windmere Farms, New Market, N. J., was converted into one just to show how clean and appetizing it was. Wadley invited officials from New Brunswick, including physicians, members of the college of agriculture there, and Guernsey breeders to his banquette. The table was set in the feed alley while the cows looked on.

Seymour Woman Manages Farm, Aided By Her Son

Seymour—Mrs. Fred Lotter, route 4, is one of only two women in Outagamie county who are managing and working farms. At the death of her husband on May 18, 1926, Mrs. Lotter stepped into her husband's place and since that date, with the aid of her son, Leo, 16, has been working the homestead, consisting of 161 acres, 80 acres of which are under the plow. They threshed 560 bushels of oats and barley last fall, but like all other farmers in this vicinity, they had trouble on account of wet weather. In harvesting their flax and corn. They have 12 acres of flax uncut and still in the field. After snapping out the best ears, they put 10 acres of corn stalks in the silo but the ears are still on the ground, covered with snow. They harvested 8 acres of very good alfalfa and 19 acres of clover and timothy. They are feeding 28 head of cattle but at this time are milking only three cows.

Hortonville—John Dobberstein recently improved his premises materially by the addition of a sun parlor to his residence and the building of a modern chicken coop and brooder room in his farm yard. Mr. Dobberstein, as one of his many farm activities, is raising white Leghorns and the new hen house will enable him to branch out farther in the poultry line. Mr. Dobberstein raised excellent crops of alfalfa and corn this season. His corn ripened into a high grade seed corn. The Kluge brothers had charge of the building improvements.

Dale—A car load of Guernsey and Holstein dairy cattle was recently shipped from this place to W. Schulz of the certified milk district of Philadelphia. Last season the same man bought two car loads of cattle in this territory, including a large percentage of purebreds. If the weather conditions are favorable, Mr. Schultz may decide to take out another carload in the near future.

Shiocton—W. M. Conradt, route 2, had 19 grade Holstein but he intended to change gradually to Guernseys by the introduction each year of several young animals of the latter type. He is now milking 12 cows and is considering the service of a cow testing association as an aid in making the change he has in mind.

West De Pere—Mrs. M. Goddard, route 2, was recently interrupted by the writer while she was doing detective work. She assumed her new duties the night before when thieves taking advantage of her absence from home, had broken into her chicken coop, had stolen her flock of chickens. When surprised, Mrs. Goddard was measuring foot prints in the new fallen snow about her coop and intended to compare the measurements with those of other footprints about the homes of several suspects, who have the reputation of being experts in bagging and removal of flocks from the coops of neighbors. Mrs. Goddard said that it is very easy to raise chickens in her neighborhood but very hard to keep them at home after they are fit for the table.

CHEESE TRADING FAIR
“Trading during the week on the cheese markets was fair. Most buyers were purchasing for current needs only. Receipts at Wisconsin warehouses are lower than at the corresponding time last year. The price relationship between butter and cheese continues to advance in favor of butter and, according to reports, it is possible that many of the factories equipped for the manufacture of either commodity will concentrate their efforts on butter. It is interesting to note that last year the price relationship much of the time favored cheese making and as a result considerable extra cheese was produced. Cheese prices are about three-fourths of a cent lower than last year at this time.”

“Although there was no variation in hog receipts, prices on better grade hogs and sows at the close of this week were 25 cents higher than at the close of the previous week. On the other hand, pigs closed 25 cents lower. Trade during the week was active. Prices are about 50 cents higher than at the corresponding time last year.”

CATTLE HIGHER
“As a result of a broad eastern demand and competition between large and small killers, the cattle market closed 50 cents higher than the previous week. At the close of the week, trade was particularly active as a result of the activity of outside shippers. Yearlings reached $18.25, the highest point of the year. Prices at the close were about 20 cents higher than at the corresponding time last year.”

“The week was featured by a marked increase in sheep receipts. Choice quality continued scarce and most of the supply had to sell considerably below top quotations. As a result of increased supplies, fat lambs closed 75 cents to $1.00 lower than last week and yearling wethers closed 75 cents to $1.00 lower. Prices are about $5.00 lower than at a corresponding time a year ago.”

ICE ADDS PLEASURE TO FARMER'S LIFE DURING HOT MONTHS

Building May Be Erected at Little Cost; “Harvest” Is Inexpensive

Many are the uses of ice on the farm. It makes possible the keeping of fresh meats and other perishable foods during the summer months, thereby making life easier and more pleasant all around. The larger income from the sale of sweet cream will much more than pay for the expense and labor required to make and store the ice used for cream cooling. The ice for household purposes will then cost nothing at all.

An inexpensive ice house, a few simple tools and a pond or stream are all that is needed to assure the farmer of ice during the spring, summer and fall. The work can be done when there is little, if any, other work for the teams and men. On a farm where 10 cows in milk are kept during the summer, from 5 to 10 tons of ice can be used to good advantage, but an additional 50 per cent should be packed to make up for melting and for such ice as is used for household purposes. The amount of ice to pack will vary proportionately with farms where more or less cows are kept.

An inexpensive ice house can be built by the farmer in a few days. An ice house, capable of storing 15 tons of ice, should have inside dimensions of 10 feet in length, 8 feet in width and 8 feet in height. For 20 tons the dimensions should be 14 by 8 by 8, 25 tons, 14 by 10 by 8, and for 30 tons, 14 by 10 by 10. A well drained site is essential and the house should be built as near the milk house as possible to save time and handling. Care should be taken to drain the house properly, and the drain should be trapped sufficiently to prevent air from entering the house through the drain. Because there is certain to be more or less melting of ice in any house, moisture will gather on the walls and ceilings unless removed by ventilation. The roof must be watertight.

GOOD TIME NOW
Many farmers find that cold weather, if not too severe, is the most desirable time to make ice. In such weather the ice is handled easier because it is “dry” rather than wet and slippery. For the most economical harvesting, ice should be 10 to 12 inches thick, and from 8 to 18 inches of water under the ice is sufficient to allow for convenient sawing and handling. The tools for the harvesting are the same as those used on the average farm. Those actually required are two ice saws, one hand marker, one pulley and rope, two pairs of ice tongs, one pointed bar or splitting fork and a strong cord. Ordinary cross cut saws with one handle removed will answer the purpose of regular saws.

Either sawdust or mill shavings make satisfactory and inexpensive packing material for ice. This material should be aged enough to be dried out thoroughly. Finely chopped prairie hay or moist grass is also satisfactory for ice packing purposes. Green sawdust about a foot thick should be placed at the bottom and another foot of sawdust and shavings placed on top of the ice. The depth of the sawdust in the center should be a few inches less than at the outer edges so that the ice cake will have a tendency to slide toward the center rather than to the outer edges. Any spaces between the ice cakes should be filled with ice or snow and not with sawdust, and at

“Talk Is Cheap!”

“TALK is cheap—but it takes money to buy a farm!”
Many a schoolyard argument of boyhood days has been ended with this homely bit of philosophy.
For the American telephone user, talk is truly cheap—cheaper than anywhere else in the world. But it takes money, to keep his telephone service cheap and to make it ever and ever cheaper. The Bell System is devoting millions of dollars to research in order to discover economies that will partially, offset the rising costs of labor and materials. It is spending nearly three-quarters of a million dollars a day for new plant, every dollar of which extends the scope of every telephone and makes every subscriber's service more valuable without increased cost to him.

The savings of telephone users, invested in telephone securities, have helped to make the Bell System's nation-wide service the most economical, as well as the most efficient and most extensive, telephone service in the world.

Meeting the Air Need

The possibilities of a growing need for gasoline and lubricating oil specially made for aviation use was apparent to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) several years ago.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) appreciated then the importance of the aeroplane to commerce and industry and realized that it was only a question of time until the whole country would be knit together by an efficient air service.

The Air Mail was the first pioneering step in this direction. Its success is not yet fully understood by the general public, but business men everywhere appreciate the importance of a mail service that is swifter by hours and even days.

Europe has already shown us what can be done in passenger aviation and we are beginning to comprehend the possibilities.

Much progress has been made in developing the aeroplane as a commercial carrier. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), keeping closely in touch with new developments and working always with thought for the future, foresaw the inevitable expansion and extension of commercial aviation in this country.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) realized that a new gasoline and lubricating oil scientifically adapted to the aeroplane would be needed. Work was begun immediately to meet this new need.

Today the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is supplying the major part of the gasoline and lubricating oil used for aviation purposes.

The development of gasoline and lubricating oil for aviation purposes is but one more evidence that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) progresses in step with the best thought and the newest ideas of the time, cooperating at every opportunity for the greater welfare and prosperity of the nation.

By forcing petroleum to yield still more products that are needed for the general good of mankind the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has translated its ideals of service into still larger terms of usefulness.

It is upon the rock of enduring service that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has become one of the great institutions of the world. Truly great because it does a big job in a big way. It renders a comprehensive service, reckoning profits as secondary, firm in the belief that service brings its reward in exact ratio to the sincerity animating such service.

CONGRESS IN SESSION AGAIN

Congress is in session again after a soothing vacation of several months, and the country tightens up its muscles the better to resist the strain. It is a "lame duck" congress, with no settled views on matters of public policy and no administrative unity that insures definite results. Many of the members who are expected to enact legislation at a session so short it will hardly get into working order before it adjourns will not return to Washington next fall. They have been retired by a disgruntled electorate and their political career is over. Theoretically, if they adhere to the course they have previously followed, they will be acting contrary to the wishes of their constituents. They do not stand for much of anything.

Important matters are before congress, including particularly, the regulation of radio, further reduction of federal income taxes, the rivers and harbors bill, which includes authorization of diversion of Lake Michigan water up the Illinois barge canal, appropriation bills, agricultural relief and a number of other questions. If the session is to follow precedent it will consist of a lot of talk and little action. The country does not know what to expect from it, and therefore cannot anticipate its legislative acts. For the most part, it fears congress will do what it does not want it to do, and that it will not do what it wishes it to do. Every lame duck session is of this character.

We are a nation which boasts of political as well as industrial and commercial efficiency, but there are inconsistencies in our scheme of government so glaring and so absurd that one wonders why we continue to tolerate them with indifference. One of these is the manner of installing a newly elected congress. Members of the house and senate elected last November will not take their seats until December of next year. They must wait thirteen months before they begin their legislative duties, and they must witness a session of congress in which members they are to succeed and who have been retired as unsatisfactory representatives, continue to enact laws and shape congressional policies. No other nation in the world has such a system, and no other nation would tolerate it. The reasons which suggested its incorporation in the constitution have long since ceased to exist. There is nothing whatever to support its preservation. It is an obstacle to the sound functioning of congress and it defeats or delays the carrying out of the will of the majority as expressed at an election. It has nothing to recommend it and everything to condemn it, a senseless cobweb of tradition.

The congressmen and senators elected in November should take their seats at the session which convenes thirty days later. We are opposed to constitutional amendments in principle, but here is one that is positively necessary and to which no valid objection can be made. While we are about it, we should also change the date of the inauguration to coincide with the legislative rearrangement, and for other reasons as well.

THE PHILIPPINE REPORT

There will be general satisfaction at the news that the essential parts and perhaps all of the report of Colonel Carmi Thompson on conditions in the Philippines will be published. The public is justifiably curious as to the content of this report and President Coolidge, whose emissary Colonel Thompson was, has announced that very little, if any, of the matter in the report will be kept confidential to himself.

The situation in the Philippines is not much different today than it has been for a long time past. There is a great demand for autonomy, also for complete independence from the United States. It is to be hope! Colonel Thompson's report will enable the matter to be cleared up for a long time to come. From all indications the report will look with disfavor upon complete independence at this time. The rich, undeveloped resources of the islands are a tremendous temptation to those who wish to profit at the expense of the islands and their inhabitants. Were the Philippines independent today, with the inhabitants in their present uneducated state, they could be exploited mercilessly.

It would seem that conservation of these resources can only be accomplished through the United States, and if this is the case the Filipino will be better off if he forgets sentimentality a little longer and considers his economic future.

DISCARDING PROHIBITION

After trying out prohibition for ten years the province of Ontario, Canada, has discarded it at the election last week in which prohibition was the sole issue, the people voting by a large majority to again legalize the liquor business under strict regulation. A couple of years ago Ontario tried out the famous 4-4 beer, which in our American equivalent is less than 2 per cent, and it was pronounced a failure. There was no kick to the beer. Canada, like many other countries, adopted prohibition as a war measure. The western provinces gave it up several years ago.

The Canadian people as a whole are more conservative and more law-abiding than the people of the United States. They have a greater respect for authority and for their duties and privileges as citizens than we on this side of the border. They have the New world spirit and the New world political conception, notwithstanding they are a part of an Old world empire. Their attitude toward the liquor question is American rather than European.

The Canadians are a conscientious and serious-minded people. Their opinions about questions like prohibition are more apt to be practical and intelligent than sentimental. They may be strong in their emotions, but they are restrained. It has taken ten years to convince the people of Ontario that prohibition was a mistake. Evidently they reached the conclusion that they will be more temperate under government sale of alcoholic beverages than under prohibition. The change, therefore, is of marked significance. Its effect is likely to be felt in the United States.

Ontario will enact a liquor law that will put the liquor traffic under direct control of the government. It is understood that liquor will be legally available to persons more than twenty-one years old only on permits to be issued by the province, and that sale will be closely watched and stringently regulated. Here again, Canada is on better ground than the United States, for it can regulate and we cannot. While we predict modification of prohibition here to permit the manufacture, sale and use of beer and light wines, and we think the national prohibition amendment itself was a mistake, if we should undertake to go back to a situation analogous to that which existed prior to prohibition, the consequences undoubtedly would be demoralizing.

We have demonstrated that we cannot regulate the liquor traffic. We do not think there is anything on which to base the supposition that we could or would regulate it more effectively today than we did ten years ago. The liquor traffic and politics simply make it impossible to have satisfactory regulation. We think Canada can regulate the hard liquor business with greater success than we could hope to. The solution of the problem in the United States appears to lie along the line of trying out beer and light wines as a temperance measure. To what extent it will decrease the demand for and consumption of illegal whisky and other hard liquors is altogether guesswork, but the experiment is worth making.

CHILDREN, HELP YOUR PARENTS

From the general trend of the large number of letters I have received from children ranging from 12 to 50 years of age, it would seem that there is a good deal of resentment among the children toward the remiss attitude of parents in the matter of sex instruction. Some of this resentment is fair and square; but much of it arises from misunderstanding.

Now I want to ask all these children who have written to me about this question, and especially all who have reason to feel glad they confided in me or sought my advice, and any other children who may have feelings or ideas about this, to do their part toward clearing up a sad situation. They can help a lot by giving brief answers to the following questions.

The only definite data which are fairly representative of conditions, data bearing on the dissemination of sex knowledge, now available to me are those compiled before the war by the medical officers of the public health service. They found that in a considerable tabulation the average age at which a boy gets his first knowledge or instruction (good or bad) about sex is 9½ years, whereas the average age at which boys receive proper instruction about sex is 15½ years—Six years too late. How it may be with girls we do not know. But in any case this is probably obsolete now. We have moved pretty fast in the last 10 years. It may be that the data warrant a revision now. What do you say?

For the stimulation of readers who have not written me before, as well as those who have had previous correspondence, I leave a blank space in the ballot for any special comment a correspondent may care to make. If you prefer, use that space to ask any question you have in mind—I am especially concerned about questions relating to sex matters, for I feel that we owe children something there. Only let your question be frank and sincere—I shall certainly not bother with questions which are beyond my province of health and hygiene. The guiding motto for this personal health service is the teaching of Hippocrates, which in effect is this: "Do good if you can, but do no harm." If I can't see the way to answer a question within the light of that golden rule of medicine, I don't answer. That's all.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tuberculosis
I work in the same office with a girl who has consumption. Two of her sisters have the same disease. Is there danger of getting it? She coughs a good deal. (Q. 23)
Answer—The usual mode of infection is through prolonged intimate contact or association with one who has tuberculosis. If the girl has tuberculosis she should not be permitted to work in an office with other persons, unless they already have tuberculosis or do not mind contracting it.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Dec. 10, 1901
The Lawrence University Glee club and the Lawrence University Mandolin club were consolidated today with Hollis E. Potter as business manager. The consolidated organization was to make a trip through the state the following spring.

At the annual meeting of the Appleton camp No. 5 of the Knights of the Maccoches the following officers were elected: Sir knight commander, J. A. Truett; sir knight lieutenant commander, O. H. Buchman; sir knight record keeper, J. H. Cook; sir knight finance keeper, J. H. Fiedler; sir knight chaplain, E. Helm; sir knight physician, H. E. Ellsworth; sir knight sergeant, D. H. Gurnee; sir knight master-at-arms, William Joecks; sir knight first master of the guard, Peter Steenis; sir knight second master of the guard, A. J. Radtke; sir knight sentinel, H. W. Ganser; sir knight picket, M. C. Christensen; sir knight correspondent, J. E. Leahr.

Extensive improvements were being made at the Lake Shore depot. The depot building had been moved about 50 feet to the west and about 15 feet to the south. When the improvements were completed, the main track was to run on the north side of the building instead of the south side.

TEN YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Dec. 5, 1916
At the annual meeting of the Royal Neighbors the previous evening at Masonic hall the following officers were elected: Mrs. John Luders, orator; Mrs. Hermann, vice orator; Mrs. Dell Roudelush, past orator; Mrs. Sarah Miller, chaplain; Mrs. Lohman, recorder; Mrs. Frank Chandler, receiver; Mrs. Wirtz, inner sentinel; Mrs. A. J. Bozan, outer sentinel; Mrs. Edward Nick, manager; Dr. E. H. Ellsworth, physician; Mrs. Laura Larson, musician; Mrs. John Luders, delegate to the convention to be held at Neenah in March and Mrs. Louis Lohman, alternate.

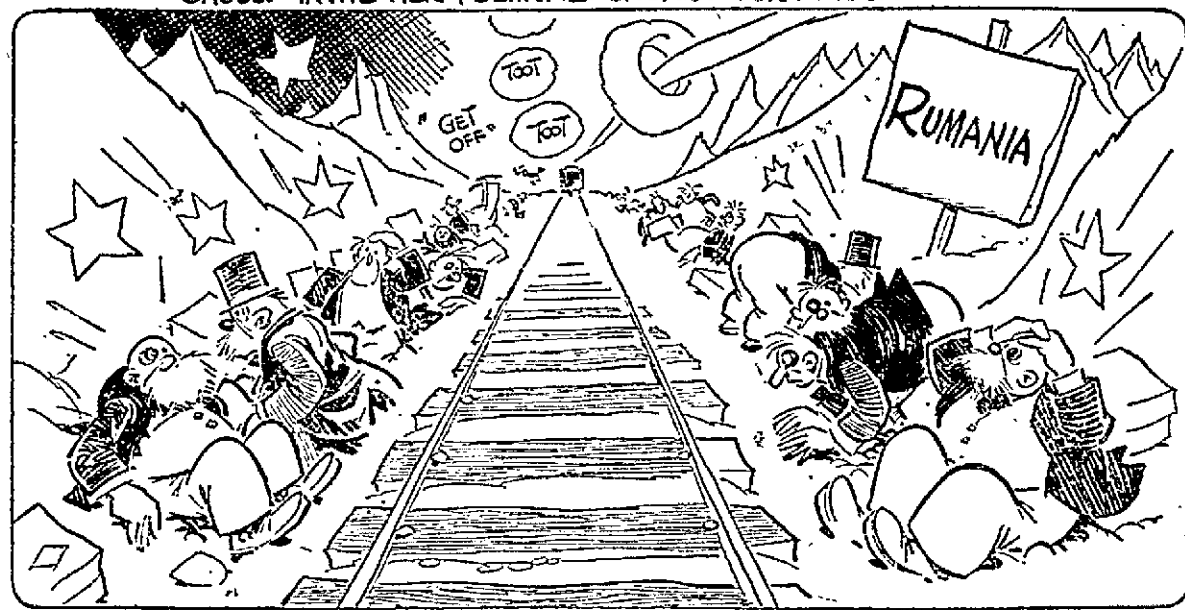

A meeting of the 17 dentists in the city was held the following Thursday evening at the Randolph hotel for the purpose of reorganizing the Appleton Dental association.

Through the efforts of Edson St. Clair, well known blind man, it was possible for clubs of 100 men and women each to send a young man through Lawrence college without a cent of expense to himself, according to terms of a new scholarship announced that morning. Mr. St. Clair had made arrangements with the college whereby he was to send at least 150 young men through college at a minimum expense to the students.

HASKIN WRITES TODAY

ON—

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—Somebody is always taking the joy out of life with dismal prophecies. Not long ago a warning was sounded to the effect that the population of the world was increasing so rapidly that in comparatively short time enough food could not be produced to feed all the people.

A little later came the petroleum scare. Oil and its products were being consumed at such rates that the world supply would be exhausted in seven or eight years. At present, however, we have to be invented for automotive vehicles to take the place of gasoline, or people would have to return to the good old natural engine that operated on oats and hay.

Then came the distressing news in the form of a report that there was in prospect a serious shortage in the production of diamonds. This was almost enough to create a panic among chorus girls and queens who depend upon a steady output of the premier gem in order to keep them supplied with bracelets, anklets, tiaras, crowns, stomachers, and the like. Also it was a severe jolt to the marriage business. How can folks become engaged without solitaires, or married without the narrow jeweled bands that have superseded the old balloon tire type of wedding ring?

Happily, however, the report about the failure of the diamond crop was unwarranted. It is true that the sales for 1925 exceeded the output by a substantial amount, but that is explained by the steady rise of the market by the new diamond syndicate, which was interested in having the excess yield of the previous year absorbed.

In fact, the Union of South Africa, which continues to be the leading producer of diamonds has at present known reserves that are sufficient, to keep up the supply for a hundred years or more. During 1925 the Union produced about 70 per cent of the value of the world's production of diamonds, and if the mandated territory of Southwest Africa be included, the proportion is raised to over 81 per cent.

DIAMONDS BY THE TON

Diamonds are valued and sold by the carat, but the mines of the Union of South Africa have produced them by the ton. Production began about 60 years ago, in 1867, to be exact, and since that time the total production has amounted to approximately 40 tons, valued at more than $1,250,000,000. If there are no more new discoveries in that territory, which is almost inconceivable, the visible supply will last for a century or more. And 40 tons of diamonds, it has been estimated, would make more than 290,000,000 fair-sized engagement rings.

George Frederick Kunz, of New York, who is recognized as one of the world's leading experts on precious stones, says that the jewel market at present is on the up and up. There has never been a greater demand for large, choice gems than at the present time, he says, especially for ring stones, whether a diamond, sapphire, ruby, or emerald, in counter-distinction to clusters and other ornaments. The emerald-cut and square-cut diamonds are especially desired and stones up to more than 20 carats are being worn. This would not have been the case a dozen years ago, says Mr. Kunz. He might have added that there are numerous families in which 20 carat diamonds, however fashionable they may be, are not being worn now and never will be worn.

But in explaining what is the mode, the expert says that in 1925 the tendency to wear large single-stone diamonds in preference to groups has been more than counterbalanced by the sale of the small stones in jewel bracelets. Never have so many bracelets been worn and so many worn at one time, exceeding even a dozen on one arm, and these in turn varying from a single row of stone to bracelets of more than an inch and a quarter in width. These are worn in connection with ruby, sapphire, and emerald bracelets, all colors on one arm, making a space of from four to six inches or solid jewelry.

Queen Marie of Rumania was reported on one occasion during her tour of the United States to have worn so many bracelets on one arm that it was in effect gauntlet from wrist to elbow. What the queen did, other women will be doing, if they garner the gems to make the splurge.

IMPORTS SHOW AN INCREASE

Mr. Kunz compiles the statistics of precious stones every year, not only on production, but on imports into the United States. For 1925 the import figures totaled $75,270,956, of which about $60,000,000 was in diamonds. Pearls constituted an item of roughly $6,800,000, other precious and semi-precious stones came to almost $5,000,000, and imitation precious stones that were dutiable amounted to more than $2,000,000.

The total diamond production for the year was 4,298,125 carats, valued at $1,858,123 pounds sterling. It will thus be seen that the United States alone supplied a greater market for diamonds in 1925 than the total diamond production. Next to the Union of South Africa the Belgian Congo with about $85,000 carats is the largest producer.

The United States can boast little in the way of precious stone production. The sapphire mines of Montana yield more in value than all the other mines of semi-precious and precious stones in the country, but there is nothing imposing in the figures. In 1924, 46,550 carats for gem purposes and 278,317 carats for mechanical uses were produced, the aggregate value being almost $26,000. Last year more sapphires were mined suitable for cutting into gems by about 8000 carats and the value of the entire output increased to $33,375.

Platinum, the metal that has almost entirely displaced gold as a setting for diamonds and other precious stones, is also statistically analyzed by Mr. Kunz. The 1925 world's production amounted to 100,000 ounces, valued at $120 per ounce, or approximately $12,000,000. Prior to the War the maximum consumption of platinum was about 300,000 ounces, but in

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—There remains at least one cafe in Manhattan—and this in wild, wild 42nd street, if you please—where women still are forbidden to smoke.

This is, perhaps, the last stand in all the Broadway belt of the latter day conventions. One would expect such a place to be a mirror of Victorianism. On the contrary its windows reflect all the gaudy salad-and-lobster trimmings of the mid-town and "quick-and-hasty."

Uninfinite flappers are daily making the mistake of "lighting up a smoke" with their demi-tasse and being cautioned by waiters to stop. Their arguments are invariably muted because one is likely to hear when a man is reprimanded.

The other day I heard an 18-year-old giving a head waiter a five-minute speech on equal rights and modern women. At the end of which he politely suggested, "That may be quite right, but you'll have to eat elsewhere if you wish to smoke."

Strangely enough, this place is not flooded by fat dowagers and old-fashioned women. In fact a man I know, who prides himself on making odd surveys, brings the report that he has noticed more smoking among fat dowagers and old-fashioned types than among any others.

Those who were inclined to sigh at the space accorded the passing of Valentino when measured beside that given the late Dr. Elliot may find some solace in a few figures I have just gathered.

The rush for old films in which Valentino appeared, according to a Broadway film agent, lasted for but a few weeks, whereas a member of the who's-who-of-bookdom tells me, the sale of fivefoot shelves goes on a pace.

The West Point influence on Broadway movie theater ushers becomes weekly more amusing. Not only is the military academy uniform suggested by that of the latest film palace, but the solemn discipline and carriage of these seat conductors is carefully patterned.

Going to the smoking room in the basement of one million-dollar-wonder theater the other night I was amazed to see a side door open and out came marching in double file some 50 of these "superfluency-ushers." Their heads were thrown back, their backs rigid, their feet swung out rhythmically and a "floor captain" sent them up the stairs with unsimulating severity to marshal them in the aisles in time for the closing of the picture.

Learned later that the almost fawning politeness of these young men is the result of a month of schooling. Anyone searching for future valets might look them over carefully—with this warning, however: I have heard that just before performances the click of "crap dice" may be heard as usual on the cement floors just behind the theater.

The "Rotten Row" of Berlin will soon be a memory. Car tracks will be laid on the bridge path where once rode members of the nobility.

those days it was valued at less than $45 the ounce.

The supply of platinum comes from five countries, the United States, Canada, Australia, Columbia, and Russia, with the last two furnishing by far the greater part. However, discoveries have been made in South Africa of such a character that it is claimed by some authorities that that country will soon be able to supply the world's demand, and possibly force a considerable reduction in price.

Increasing use of platinum in recent years has led to agitation for some kind of legislation to guarantee the quality of the metal in articles sold as platinum. This sort of thing is by no means new, for Great Britain for a period of some 600 years has had what is regarded as the most perfect system of hall-marks to attest the quality of products of the jewelry industry.

In seeking a hallmark for platinum the general idea seems to be that nothing as good as the mark as platinum unless it is 950 fine, or contains 95 per cent of the platinum-group metals.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE JUDITH MARTIN, (teaching in Pendleton University) arouses the hostility of DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN, by choosing friends among the students, such as ERIC WATERS, a radical senior. Another admirer is DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor. MYRA ALDRICH, a student, is in love with Eric, and jealous of Judith.

Judith befriends Dean Brown's wife, on learning her unhappy story. Eric is suspected of selling poison liquor, and Judith openly defends him.

"KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, tries to blackmail Mrs. Brown with a story of her week-end trip to meet her lover. Judith asks Eric to silence Shea, and he promises to do so.

Judith spends the Christmas holidays at Myra's sorority house, and on Christmas Eve, when she is alone in the house, Shea tries to force an entrance. Judith shoots in the air, scaring him away.

Dean Brown summons Judith a few days later and tells her she must help in his reform campaign by finding out from Eric where "KITTY" Shea is.

Judith enters her classroom, and hears the students say that someone has been found dead in a car, "all smashed up."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Judith sat at her desk, her hands clenched in her lap. The whispers grew fainter and finally stopped. "What is it?" she asked at last.

Thus encouraged, label broke loose. They all talked at once, and Judith could understand nothing.

"Fush," said the spectacled youth grandly to the others. "I'll tell her, Miss Martin, a man has been found dead in Snake Creek. I have some work in the journalism school, you know, and the corner called up our editor first thing. 'Isn't known around town yet.'"

"A man?" gasped Judith. "Who is he?"

"You mean WAS he," corrected the body, flippantly. "Why, nobody much. Just a fellow named Shea. Why, Miss Martin, are you going to faint?"

The elder Miss Reasey ran to Judith and patted her with irritating little flutters about the head and shoulders. Judith shook her off. "Nonsense, of course I'm not going to faint."

The spectacled youth was anxious to go on with the story. "But perhaps you'd rather not hear any more about it," he said to Judith.

She summoned a smile. "Yes, tell me."

"Well," said the boy, "it seems

"When is the inquest?" asked Lillian Stedway.

"Tomorrow afternoon. They're rushing it."

The other Miss Reasey spoke up. "There were some mud-soaked letters in his pocket that they're trying to decipher," she said, triumphantly.

Her sister looked at her reproachfully. "That's only rumor," she said.

"The younger sister was not to be daunted. 'They say maybe he was drunk and couldn't steer the car.'"

The elder Miss Reasey chimed in. "Or maybe somebody had hit him. And he was dizzy. There's no other apparent reason for running off that road just there."

Judith sat silent, trying to nibble at her food.

"Well," said Miss Stedway "it seems a hard thing to say, but I can't help thinking—the wages of sin."

Judith spoke up. "But the queer part of it is that many a vicious man has gone in the ditch too."

Miss Stedway glared at her. "That doesn't change matters. Personally, I believe that Pendleton will be better off from now on—or would be, if they could only get the rest of Shea's gang."

Judith was too tried to take up the battle.

After dinner, when the house had settled down for an evening of study chatter and sleep, Judith went downstairs. There was nobody in the lower hall, and the usual parsimonious little bulb was shining dimly near the door. She called the Sigma Psi number and waited for an answer.

The houseman answered. "No, Mr. Waters is not in."

Will Weathered came to the telephone. "Hello, Jude. Just passing by and thought it might be you calling for Eric. He hasn't been home since noon. The gang's wondering about him. How much have you heard about Shea?"

"A good deal," said Judith weakly. "Can you tell me any more?"

"Nope, not till tomorrow. One of our men in the medic school is going to help Doc Hillier with the post mortem. But we should worry about the gruesome details. What I want to know is—where's Eric?"

Judith leaned against the telephone wearily. "I'm not Eric's keeper, Will. If I knew where he was I wouldn't be calling him."

Late that night Mrs. Timothy Brown called Judith. "Where can I see you alone?" she asked.

Judith thought a moment. "I don't think you can afford to take the risk. The dean and I quarreled this morning. What is it you want to talk about? Can you talk now?"

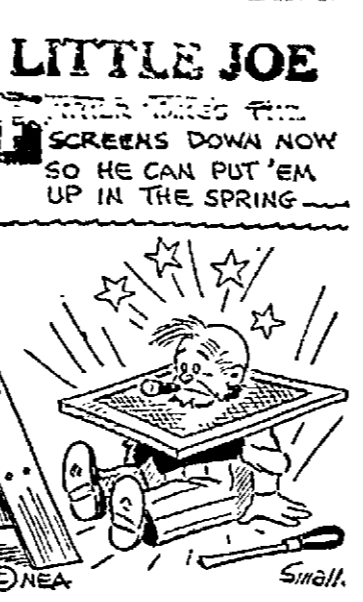

"Have you heard anything about Shea—anything about the letters in his pocket?"

"Nothing but a rumor that there were some," replied Judith.

The woman at the other end of the wire gasped. "My God!"

"You hadn't written him, had you, for heaven's sake?" exclaimed Judith.

"No. But—I can't talk any more. 'Good night.' Before Judith could reply, the receiver went up. She went back to bed, puzzled.

LITTLE JOE SCREENS DOWN NOW SO HE CAN PUT 'EM UP IN THE SPRING

The campus was mad with excitement the next day. Groups of students stood on every corner, discussing the death of Shea. Judith saw many worried faces among them, on her way to class. "God! Shea had the lowdown on everybody," she heard one boy say to his tall, skinned companion.

She hurried on to her classroom. Here too, the excitement was great. The latest sheets of the town paper were spread out on the desks.

Judith called the class to order. Near the end of the hour her eyes drifted toward the campus beyond the window, and she started. Eric was walking toward the building. As she watched, he reached it and disappeared from her view.

A few minutes later he appeared in the hall outside her door. When he caught her eye, he pointed to the left and went away.

Judith dismissed her class five minutes early and followed him. She found him standing by a window overlooking a balcony that opened off a side corridor.

"Eric," she cried, "where have you been?"

He waved the question aside. "Has the dean called you?"

Judith shook her head. "Not since yesterday."

Eric went on. "They've finished the post mortem. Manners just told me."

Judith steadied herself. "Did they find any wounds, any—bullet holes?"

Could it be, Judith wonders, that her random shot might have struck Shea? She is worried more when Eric is arrested.

STATE CHECKS DOG POPULATION FACTS

County Clerk Requested to Supply Information on Canine Damage

Statistics on the personal history and habits of the dog population of Outagamie county are being compiled by County Clerk John E. Hantschel at the request of the state department of agriculture. It was reported Saturday. Among the points on which the state desires enlightenment are the following:

How many dogs are there in the county?

How many males?

How many females?

How much was paid out by the county in allowed claims against dog owners whose animals are alleged to have destroyed property?

The questionnaire also asks the clerk to itemize the damage as to whether fowls, sheep, horses, cattle or hogs were molested by the animals involved.

Much of the information, it was pointed out, is available in report form from the various towns, cities and villages but a considerable amount must be acquired through rather extensive research of county books.

The Startling Story of a Girl's Great Folly

AS secretary to Fred Joyce, the prominent attorney, Jane's position was a fortunate one. Yet she was unhappy. She longed to escape from the sordid world of business into a world of freedom and gaiety.

One day her employer said: "Let's take a holiday. A long one. We'll do Paris, London, and the Continent. I'll buy you everything your heart desires. Will you go?"

Jane's senses whirled. But instinct warned her to refuse. Then Joyce slipped a magnificent rope of pearls around her neck. "Will you accept them?" her tempter whispered. Her head swam. His promise of luxury rose vividly in her imagination. She fought for strength to say no! But he read her answer in her eyes.

Had Jane counted the cost she would have destroyed herself rather than enter that mad compact.

Her pitiful story, entitled "My Dangerous Paradise," appears in January True Story Magazine. Don't miss it!

WHAT TO GIVE YOUR MOTHER FOR CHRISTMAS

Mother's silverware has seen many years of service. Though she is still proud of one of her wedding gifts, let us make her happy with a complete set of new silver. In order to set the table appropriately for breakfast, luncheon and dinner for four guests and the remaining part of our own family, which is four, it's making eight in all, the following pieces would represent an absolute minimum:

Six or eight spoons.
Three tablespoons.
Eight dessert spoons or as a substitute, eight round bowls in spoons.
Eight dinner forks.
Eight dinner knives.
One sugar shell, or one sugar tongs or both.
One butter knife.
Eight butter spoons.
This list does not include any of the so-called fancy or serving pieces. The hostess will find when serving that the solid fork and after dinner coffee spoon may be substituted with the teaspoon and the fork. For complete service of all meals mother will find it necessary to have the following:

Eight dessert knives.
Eight dessert forks.
Eight after dinner coffee spoons.
Eight orange or grapefruit spoons.
Eight salad forks.
Eight oyster forks.
Eight ice cream forks.
Eight bouillon spoons.
Eight rice teaspoons.
One cold meat fork.
One berry spoon.
One server for pie or ice cream.
One tomato server.
One gravy ladle.
One cream ladle.
One jelly server.
One cheese server.
One olive spoon.
One bird or steak carving set.
One meat carving set.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST — Grape juice with lemon, cereal, thin cream, fried corn meal mush, syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Stuffed onions, whole wheat bread, hearts of celery, carrot pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER — Roast beef, brown gravy, potatoes baked with meat, cauliflower in cream sauce, head lettuce with Russian dressing, 1 ham bread, apple snow, milk, coffee.

Carrot pudding should endear itself to the cook, since it uses no eggs in its composition and at the same time furnishes much nourishment.

CARROT PUDDING

One cup grated raw carrot, 1 cup grated raw potato, 1 cup light brown sugar, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons melted shortening, 2 tablespoons milk, 1 cup seeded and chopped raisins, 1-4 cup sliced citron.

Sprinkle 2 tablespoons flour over raisins. Mix grated carrot, potato and sugar. Mix and sift flour, salt, soda and spices. Melt the shortening in the mold in which the pudding is to be steamed. This greases the mold as well as prepares the shortening for use in the pudding. Combine all the ingredients, mixing thoroughly. Turn into greased mold and steam for one and one-half hours. Serve warm with hard sauce.

This pudding can be reheated and used the second day.

A lemon sauce can be used if a less rich sauce is preferred.

The Fight For Supremacy

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

(READ THE STORY THEN, COLOR THE PICTURE)

A MERRY bunch of Tinymites and then they heard the man explain were surely seeing all the sights. They clumped upon the back end of a great big touring car. Said Scouty, "Gee, I'm getting cold. Hang on, you fellows. Don't lose hold. The speed the man is driving at, he must be going fast."

Along the country road dust flew it flew up in their little eyes, and made it rather hard for them to really have much fun. And then the auto swerved about and, as it stopped, the man jumped out, and shouted to another man, "I'm glad that trip is done."

"Now, all be quiet!" Scouty said. "I think the man's gone up ahead. As soon as it's good and safe we'll hide behind a tree." For quite a while they watched the man and then they jumped up and ran, and almost found a hiding place, as safe as a could be.

They hoped for trails, and not in vain for soon they saw an airplane.

(The Tinymites sail through the clouds in the next story.)

FAIRY TALES AND LIES

BY OLIV ROBERTS BARTON

IT is interesting to note that fairies have been found in every part of the world. They are said to be the enemies of the fairy tale claim that when children hear that there is a "fairy tale" in the news comes with a "terrific shock" and that the child loses all confidence in its mother. The mother has led on the subject—the same mother who taught the child not to lie.

The trouble is that the harmless myth of religious significance that started with the poor family who entertained a saint unaware, who in turn befriended the family on Christmas, has become an entirely materialistic custom.

Children have learned to look upon Santa Claus from a purely selfish standpoint, as someone to be worked for whatever they can get out of him. The spirit of generosity and mercy that has been the basis of the Christmas story has been crowded out of

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Faith, flushed with excitement, ran down the weed-grown path to the open, unhinged gate and sprang upon the running board of Bob Hathaway's car.

"Slide over into the driver's seat and get the engine going," she commanded Cherry breathlessly. "Pete Gonzales was in that house and refused to come out when his mother called him. Bob's scouting around the back. Pete was probably watching from the window and will make a bolt for it through the front door. If he does—oh, there he is now! See—dropping out of that window. He'll jump the fence and make a run for it. Quick! Can you turn the car in this narrow street?"

"I can turn on a dime," Cherry boasted, her eyes glittering with excitement. She swung the car at an almost exact right angle into the road, backed a piece, then, with a great wrench of the wheel with a tiny, frail-looking hand, headed it toward the fleeing figure of a short, thick-set, long-armed man, clad in soiled dark trousers and a frayed old red sweater. He was bare-headed, and he ran like an ape, his bowed legs incredibly awkward, his abnormally long arms swinging.

"There's Bob!" Faith gasped. "Wait for him."

Hathaway was running fleetly across the vacant lot next to the Gonzales home. Pete Gonzales was an evil thing to look upon, with his greasy thatch of long, uncombed black hair, his little pig-eyes glinting malevolently at the man who had him cornered.

"Aw, dry up and blow away!" his horse, croaking voice rasped out. "What right you got to come snooping around a guy's house?"

Bob Hathaway laughed shortly and stooped to pick up the automatic which Pete Gonzales had dropped, taking care to keep him covered as he did so.

"Stand up, Pete. I'm not going to hurt you if you answer my questions. If you don't, I'll take you into police headquarters and let you explain this gun—concealed weapons. Sullivan law, you know, and a few other little things I can think of."

"Sullivan law yourself," the other man growled, his evil eyes fixed on the Colt in Bob's hand.

"Oh, no, buddy. I have a permit to carry a pistol. Didn't know I was a deputy prohibition enforcement officer, did you? Now, don't talk back or get fresh, but answer my questions. That's all right, slick," he called over his shoulder, as he heard the approach of his car. "Sit still. This baby won't give any trouble. And I'll be glad to have witnesses to what he's got to say. Now, first of all, where does that precious sister of yours hang out now?"

"None of your business," Pete Gonzales began, but at the nod of Bob's gun in the pit of his stomach, he answered sulkily. "Got a furnished room at 2513 West Tenth Street."

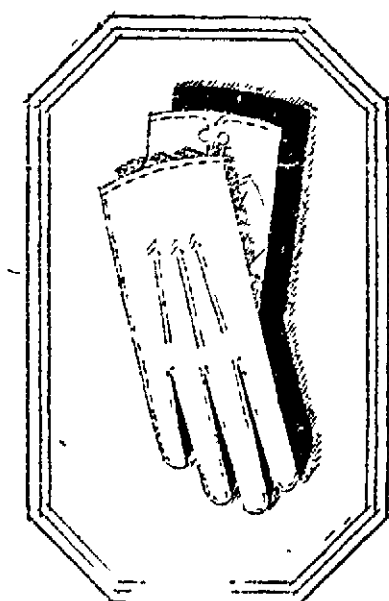

"All right," Bob Hathaway snapped. "Now, why have you been annoying this young lady—Miss Cherry Lane? Following her about everywhere she goes? Make it snappy, Pete. I haven't got all day to waste on you."

"It's a dirty lie!" Pete Gonzales growled, but again at the prod of the gun mended his speech and his temper. "It was a job of work for me, see? An' I ain't squealin', see?"

"You sister's going to be arrested before night, for writing poison pen letters to Miss Lane," Bob lied without a flicker of an eyelash. "Now, Pete, if you want to help your sister, you'd better come clean and tell us who's behind this thing. It isn't you or your sister, Lola. Who's paying you two to do this—you to shadow Miss Lane and report every move she makes, and Lola to write black-mail letters? Lola's been caught with the goods, and I advise you to save your own hide and help save hers by coming clean. How about it?"

FINGER NAILS MUST MATCH REST OF MAKEUP

Finger nails to harmonize with the rest of the toilette is another whim. The effect is produced with coral, black green, blue or ivory varnish, which is applied to the nails with a tiny brush. The half moons are left untouched. The new finger nail sets, consist of half a dozen tiny bottles, each containing sufficient varnish for two applications. Then there is a large bottle of fluid which is guaranteed to remove all traces of the coloring when desired.

BABY STAR IN FEATURE PICTURE SHE'S NEW KIND OF PEACH.

BY GENE COHN

NEW YORK. The queen is dead! Long live the queen! No movie queens have passed beyond public favor recently, but that the film moguls think there is a chance of some of them doing so is clearly evident by the unusually healthy crop of baby stars.

More than a year ago a motion picture company started a movie school. The "pupils," following "graduation," made one picture. And nearly everyone expected that would end the thing and the old players could go serenely on their way.

But it now begins to be evident that the film producers were in earnest, for within the last few months at least four of the 16 have been given prominent parts, three of the four winning their big chance within the past few weeks.

When W. C. Fields' new comedy, based on the stage production, "The Potters," is shown, the public will see, in the role of Mamie Potter, a young Atlantic, Ga., girl named Ivy Harris. Folk downy home know her as Marian Ivy Harris, but the film people clipped off that first name a "too long to fit the electric lights."

When Paramount's "Love's Greatest Mistake," which Edward Sutherland now is filming, finally comes to the public, the fans will see a young blond named Josephine Dunn. "Jo" has been in several Broadway musical comedies, the most recent one before coming to the films being "Kid Boots." She originally came from Denver.

In the same picture is another girl this time from Wichita, Kas. She is Iris Grey, and while her part is not the leading one that "Jo" will have it is a good one.

JOSEPHINE DUNN had no idea of going into the films. But another girl friend made an appointment for a screen test and Josephine went along. The cameraman suggested that she sit for a couple of pictures, and she found herself in the film school while the friend lost out.

Ivy Harris

Beatrice in violet velvet and satin. Acting as mannequins for Lady Angela Forbes, Lady Cynthia Asquith wearing house frocks. Mrs. Winston Churchill's sister, Mrs. Bertram Romilly exhibiting dance frocks.

POWDERED GLASS BEAUTIFIER

Powdered glass is being used extensively in beautifying the new English evening gown. It is applied to the face, to a shot broche or shimmering silver and blue or silver and green and produces an effect much softer than beads.

ALL-WHITE WEDDINGS

All-white weddings again are fashionable. One was chosen by Miss Jean Southey for her marriage to the Master of Falkland. Her dress was of "moyen age" white satin with a beautiful train embroidered in madonna lilies. She wore orange blossoms in her hair. Her nine young bridesmaids were attired in white frocks and wore wreaths of jasmine in their hair.

HOSE THINNER

Feminine whimsy again asserts itself, in the sudden return to winter fashion of the thinnest of thin black and gun metal silk hose. Man has a look and a shrug for the rather exposure of the expensively fur coated young ladies on New York's Fifth Avenue, whose legs shiver in a covering of goose-flesh and a 54-gauge stocking that is lighter than a chiffon veil.

While complaints are general of business depression in Japan, the theatres apparently are prosperous. More than 400,000 persons attended theatrical performances in Tokyo during September, or about 20 per cent of the population.

HIGH SCHOOL WORK SHOWS HIGH GRADE FOR 6 WEEKS TERM

Second Report Cards Show
150 Per Cent Increase
Over Last Year

An increase of more than 150 per cent over the same term last year was shown in the honor roll at Appleton high school for the second 6 weeks term of 1926. Sixty-four students received "A" and "B" average grades as compared with 25 last year and 53 for the first term this year. The value of directed study by the system used at the school this year is proved by this record. H. H. Heible, principal, believes about 8 per cent of the student body is on the honor roll.

There were 16 seniors, 21 juniors, and 27 sophomores on the list. Thirty of the group were in the "A" section for work of "excellent" quality, and 34 in the "B" for "very good" work. "A" students were: seniors, Jean Cannon, Mark Catlin, Geranna Gehl, Alice Getzsch, Martha Jentz, Marie Sanem and Martha Weight; juniors, Theodore Bolton, Zora Colburn, Lynn Handeside, Percy Menning, Ethel Perrine, Viola Schmitt, Bernice Schmiger, Arnold Sieg, Evelyn Stallman, and Merton Zahrt; sophomores, Veronica Becker, Ruth Cohen, Margaret Crabb, Jean Drysdale, Robert Elias, Hilda Harm, Annette Heiler, Robert Mader, Esther Merkl, Lawrence Morris, Jean Owen, Gertrude Schultz, and Gladys Shauger.

Students in the "B" group were: Seniors, Russell Denyes, Dorothy Draheim, John Flampton, Marie Konz, Marjorie McCarty, Vora Oelke, Francis Rooney, Elizabeth Smith, and Ethel Stallman; juniors, Ruth Brandt, Leona Captain, Janet Carnegross, Agnes Chasnap, Pearl Guckenberg, Juanita Hanson, Florence Hertel, Marie Kessler, Ruth Laman, Leila Van Heuklon, and Clarence Voss; sophomores, Marcella Beig, Helen Childs, Alice Dittmer, Jean Embrey, John Hinz, Mildred Koehnke, Lenora Mahner, Lucille Neilsen, Florence Nelson, Lucille Koesch, Pearl Rohm, Adeline Smith, Charlotte Tracy, and Monica Van Rydin.

MOST RURAL SCHOOLS TO CLOSE FOR 2 WEEKS

Most rural schools will have two weeks vacation over the Christmas and New Year holidays, it was reported.

ALMOST ALL TEACHERS JOIN ASSOCIATION

More than 90 per cent of teachers in Outagamie-co rural schools are members of the Wisconsin Teachers' association but it is hoped that the other 10 per cent will file their applications before Jan. 1, it was reported by County Superintendent A. G. Meating on Friday.

It was expected that the county would enroll 100 per cent this year. Some changes in the teaching staff and misunderstanding on the part of some teachers as to what benefits are derived from membership accounts for the few who have not joined yet, it was pointed out.

Last year slightly more than 80 per cent of the rural educators were members of the association so an appreciable gain is shown although the goal has not been reached.

SCHOOLS OUTLINE FIRE PREVENTION

Hope to Eliminate Possibility of Any Mishaps During Holidays

Fire prevention in the rural schools during the Christmas holiday season will be outlined for teachers in the hope that the possibility of even the slightest mishaps that might mar Christmas programs will be eliminated, it was announced by County Superintendent A. G. Meating.

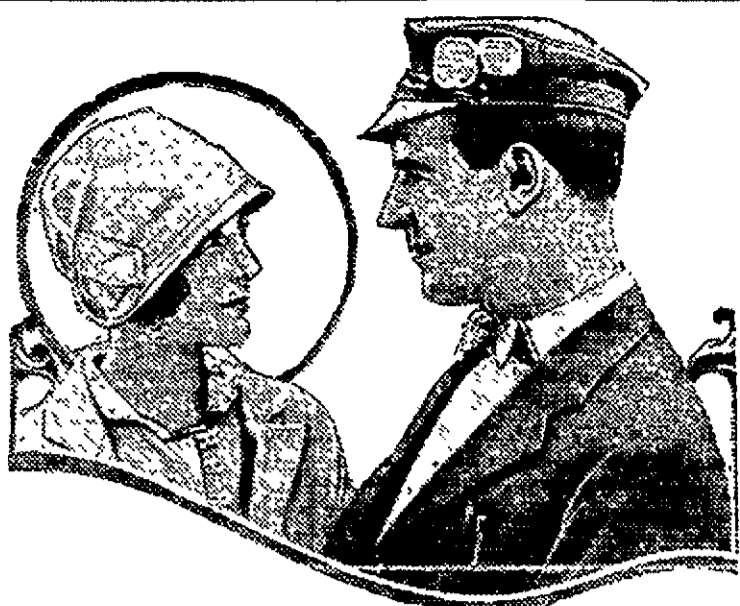

The primary suggestion, Mr. Meating said, will be for teachers to arrange their programs so that in no instance will the children taking part, or the audience, come within 5 to 8 feet of a tree lit with candles. It is to be suggested that teachers draw a "fire line" with chalk this distance from the illuminated tree to forestall the possibility of inflammable clothing being ignited.

It also will be suggested that where special costumes are used that every effort be made to keep them as simple as would be commensurate with the part portrayed; the materials used should be carefully selected for their fire resistance, it was pointed out.

Cotton bathing should be entirely eliminated from the decoration schemes and wherever possible electric candles are advised. There are probably 10 rural schools equipped with electric lights, Mr. Meating said.

on Thursday. In a few instances some work may be made up during the vacation where schools were closed a day or so during the term for any reason, it was stated. Present announcements are that work will be resumed Jan. 3. Most schools will close Dec. 17.

"MORE PAY-LESS WORK"

"More Pay—Less Work," at the New Bijou today and Wednesday is Fox Film's version of Peter B. Kyne's latest story about Cappy Ricks. Kyne has outdone all his former efforts in creating amusing situations for Cappy and his associates and in this comedy he has almost all the principal actors bounding around in San Francisco Bay at some time during the action.

First Cappy's daughter Betty falls into the water. Wilho Hinchfield, son of Dad Hinchfield, Cappy's old enemy, dives in after her. Later in the comedy Cappy and Dad are spilled into the water when a motorboat overturns. A double knockout that finishes a fist fight is another amusing incident. Tugs collide in the bay and the captains start fighting. Each lands a haymaker and knocks out the other at the same time.

PLAN LUNCHEON WITH U. S. COMMERCE WORKER

A luncheon at which F. L. Roberts, district manager, United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce will speak, has been arranged by the industrial committee of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, it was announced Friday. The luncheon will be held at 12:15 Thursday noon, Dec. 16, at Hotel Northern.

Mr. Roberts' address will deal with the foreign and domestic trade promotion service of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. He will give similar talks in other cities in the state that week.

All manufacturers here interested in foreign and domestic commerce are urged to attend. The industrial committee has announced. This will mark Mr. Roberts' second appearance in Appleton.

Principals Meet

Principles of the grade schools in Appleton will meet with the superintendent of schools at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The question of establishing the banking system of Thrift, Inc. in the third and fifth ward schools will be discussed. The other schools in the public system bank through this method.

COLUMBIA-CO HAS OWN SPEED LWS; LIMIT IS 40 PER

Maximum Speed of 25 Miles
Is Allowed on Arteries—in Cities

Although Columbia-co has taken the initiative and instituted a set of highway laws to suit its convenience and conception of what a traffic code should be, there is little indication that other counties will follow suit and none that Outagamie-co members of the board of supervisors favor tampering with state statutes except by action of the legislature.

The county board of Columbia-co, according to reports, voted the following rules:

The maximum speed outside the limits of cities and villages to be 40 miles an hour.

A maximum speed of 25 miles an hour on arteries or through traffic for cities.

Fifteen miles an hour when passing schools during recess or while children are being assembled or dismissed.

Twenty miles an hour in business and residential districts.

Fifteen miles an hour when approaching a grade crossing of any street or steam railway.

Outagamie officials believe that although the Columbia-co rules may be good it still would be bad precedent for counties to tamper with the state

COLORADO CATTLE THRIVE IN PERU MOUNTAIN AREAS

Denver—A number of Hereford and Aberdeen-Angus bulls purchased in Colorado a year ago and shipped to Lima, Peru, have done so well that an order for 410 head of breeding cattle has been given to cattle owners in the same district.

The stock is grazed in the Andes country at an altitude of from 11,000 to 13,000 feet. For this reason it was considered desirable to purchase cattle raised in a high altitude in the United States.

MICHIGAN FLOODED IN POSTAL SALES SCHEME

Muskegon, Mich. — A blind man, who is carrying on a mail order business, has flooded Michigan with unsorted postcards, while an epidemic of unsolicited merchandise of other varieties is reported.

The Muskegon Chamber of Commerce has obtained a ruling from the postal authorities that persons receiving the unsolicited merchandise do not have to return it or pay for it.

This form of mail order business has increased rapidly during the last few years. Neckties, handkerchiefs, regulations on account of possible confusion in driving from one county to another where traffic rules might be diametrically opposed.

and other articles are mailed and the person receiving them is requested to send them back to the sender. If the sender does not, while others return the goods.

While zealously fighting a blaze, the volunteer fire department of Bulkington, England, drained the village pond and left the fish floundering in the mud.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all the advantages of granmother's mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, cramp, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

"Y" INDUSTRIAL CAGE LEAGUE STARTS PLAY TONIGHT

Opening Game Between Galpin And Coates Is Carded As Tough Battle

First Game Called at 8:15; Fox River. Riversides Meet at 9:15

BOWLING

TUESDAY GAMES
Coated Paper vs Galpin Hardware
Riverside Paper vs Fox River Paper

SATURDAY GAMES
Kaukauna "Y" vs Citizens Bank
Kimberly Co. vs Eighth Team

Play in the 1926-27 Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball league will open Tuesday evening at 8:15 at the association gymnasium when the Galpin Hardware, 1925-26 league champs, clash with the strengthened Appleton Coated Paper Co. crew. At 9:15 the Riverside and Fox River Paper Co. squads will battle in the second tilt.

In the final game of the evening the Fox River, with a veteran team of men who have played together for five years and have copped three straight "Y" loop pennants are favored over Riversides, who take the floor with a strengthened lineup. The lineup includes Al Gardner, former Interstate star. The Fox River lineup will be strengthened by the return of "Gib" Stevens, one of the best guards in the loop two years ago.

In the opener, the winner seems to be a tossup, though the squad which cops can be reckoned as a contender for the banner this year. The Galpin squad is slightly weaker than last year with S. Zussman, Bahceli, Bloomer, Heble and Lutz, its shooting arm, missing, but lists among its new men Jake Zussman, Lawrence college star for four years, Pete Schwegler star of the Riversides this year, and Sid Cohen.

Max Knapp, former Orange forward has been added to the Coated lineup together with "Hod" Bowers and "Baldy" Eggert, two stars of the 1925-26 season. The rest of the team includes three good men in Rowdy and Stammer, former Orangemen and Hase.

Saturday evening two more games which will determine strongest contenders this year are carded. The Kimberly-Clark Co. meets an eighth team in the 9:15 game, but no matter, who the squad consists of, is picked as an easy winner. A present the K-C men seem to be the class of the loop. In the 8:15 game, the result is again a tossup with two of the strong loop teams again clashing.

The Citizens Bank squad was a contender for the title until the final games last year and then took second place in the Y district meet at Kimberly, losing only to the crack K-C Athletics, who later won the state amateur title and the northeastern two honors. It has been strengthened over last year by a pair of speedy forwards with fair shooting eyes, Al Cookson of the 1926 Orange cage squad, and Conn, a former Woodstock, Ill., high school player.

The Kaukauna "Y" squad lists among its men several of the best cage players turned out by Tiger Bill Smith at Kaukauna high during the years he made Kaukauna famous as a cage city. If Farwell and St. Mitchell, Lawrence fresh stars, play the Electric City squad will have one of the best guard pairs in the league. At one forward is Doc Algeo, varsity forward at Marquette last year, who played twice against Lawrence.

James Balliet copped two prizes on the Elk alleys last week as the result of rolling the high game, 249. The game was rolled in an Elk league struggle and gave the pinbuster the league prize for the week as well as the prize for the alleys for the week.

Mrs. Adair won ladies prize for the week with a 178 high game.

HOLD VALLEY TITLE ROLLER RACE HERE WEDNESDAY EVENING

Sharp and Ratzman, Appleton. Present Champs, Meet Bay Stars

Champion roller skating relay teams of two Fox river valley cities will clash in a challenge battle for the valley title Wednesday evening at Armory G. when Glen Wirtz and Edward Schuler, Green Bay, will take the floor to meet Percy Sharp and Gordon Ratzman of Appleton, present valley titlists. Sharp, well known in local skate circles, and Sawyer won the title last year at Green Bay and Sunday afternoon Sharp and Sawyer defended the honors. For Appleton, winning from Wirtz and Schuler at Green Bay Columbus club.

The losers immediately challenged the valley champs to a return match for the title at Appleton and Wednesday was set as the day. Wirtz, star of the Bay team, is the claimant of the state professional speed skating title.

FARM AGENT BIG NEED OF COUNTY, BREEDERS BELIEVE

Want County Board to Consider Appointment at Spring Session

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—At the annual meeting of the Holstein Breeders' association on Saturday which was held at Manawa three new directors were elected by breeders from all points of the county. Stuart Lindsay, Manawa, Oscar Peterson, Ogdensburg, and A. P. Rowe of Scandinavia were those named as directors to serve for three years.

The matter receiving the most discussion was the need of securing the services of a county agent. About fifty counties of the state profit annually through the investigations and advice of importance, according to Mr. Lindsay, who is deeply interested in the question. Waupaca has for a period of years maintained an agent until about two years ago.

Mr. Huffcut when questioned as to what the association hoped to gain through the proposed plan of maintaining an agent stated that one of the chief objects was the beginning of calf clubs organized among the boys. Much has been accomplished, he stated, through this move of the agents' work. This, it was pointed out, tends to direct the youth's interest toward a farm future and inculcates a higher ideal by upholding the standard of pure breeding. Mr. Huffcut stated that it is hoped by the association that the matter will be carried to the county board during the spring session.

It is expected that a mid summer picnic will be held by the association during the summer of 1927.

EVERY MEMBER CANVASS OF CHURCH IS SUCCESS

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The every member canvass which was conducted by the special committee of the First Congregational church on Sunday afternoon was carried on by a group of twenty men of the church. Letters announcing the plan were mailed earlier in the week to give time for those members to be approached to give thought to their year's apportionment. The church and to be at home to the committee which called. The plan has previously worked out in a successful manner and this year's results were no exception, according to the Rev. H. P. Freeling, pastor, and to others who aided in the canvass.

Those members who aided in the canvass were E. C. Jost, Sherman Edminister, E. L. Reuter, A. Pennington, Harold Miller, C. B. Reuter, Earl Fatchen, E. T. Avera, F. L. Zaag, Harold Zaag, Ellis Caley, Ben Harquist, Harry B. Christy, Herbert Ritchie, Gilbert Fonstad, C. W. Lyon, H. Rice, Carl Fellenz, Carl Mason and William Oestreich.

CAR BACKS DOWN HILL ON SLIPPERY ROAD

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A Ford Sedan owned by Mike Ahearn and driven by a member of the family narrowly escaped turning over in the ditch and probable injury to the occupants Saturday evening due to the icy roads. The accident happened at the "edge" on the Hortonville road as the car was ascending to go to the Ahearn residence. When nearly at the top it swerved and slid backward, finally backing into a deep ditch, barely remaining upright. The occupants of the car were removed and pulled the car on the road.

TAG DAY RAISES $125 FOR HOSPITAL ROOM

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—About $125 was realized from the "tag day" sponsored by the Auxiliary to the New London Community Hospital which was held Saturday, Dec. 4. Owing to the inclement weather there was not the usual Saturday crowd in the downtown district and there was not the usual opportunity for "tagging." The proceeds will be used by the auxiliary to furnish a room in the new hospital which is now being equipped and which will be ready for use in the near future. Tickets will be placed on sale the latter part of the week for "Marty's Aunt" which will be staged at the Grand theatre Thursday evening, Dec. 16, by the J. F. Bannister players of Appleton.

ALLEN ELECTED CHIEF RANGER OF FORESTERS

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The Catholic Order of Foresters held their annual election of officers Sunday afternoon. The following officers were elected: Chief ranger, Frank Allen; vice chief ranger, Vern DeJonghe; recording secretary, James Bodoh; financial secretary, Edward Jagoditch; treasurer, Russell Wilkenson; trustee, Frank Klatt.

The Catholic Women's club will hold their annual election of officers at Catholic Parish hall Wednesday, Dec. 8.

The Catholic Knights will meet tonight at Parish hall.

Services at the Congregational church at Roynton conducted by Rev. Henry P. Freeling, pastor of the Congregational church of this city have been changed from 9 A. M. to 2 P. M. during the winter months.

THIS PROVES THAT FIRST LIAR AIN'T GOT NO CHANCE

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—While many alibis have been offered as "why didn't I get my buck" the following seems to have taken high honors in this community. The story concerns a young man who is employed by a local garage. He was assigned to guard duty on a runway in the north woods, and while contemplating the grandeur of Nature and thinking of his supper fell asleep. With his gun reposing across his knees, a half smile of utter peace adorning his countenance his companions found him after a frightened search following repeated shouts which had received no response. Some even go so far as to state that a genuine buck was licking his face. Certain it is that the sleeping hero of the hunt was so sound asleep that the sound of his own gun fired above his head failed to awaken him. Fully awakened he shook himself and gave fervent thanks that the buck did not bite him as he slept.

SENIORS, JUNIORS WIN CLASS GAMES

Upperclassmen Have Easy Time Downgrading Sophomores and Freshmen

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The schedule of inter-mural basketball contests has been announced the opening game of which was played last Thursday evening. The K. C. Hall has been secured for regular games with practice privileges. The second game of the season was played on Monday evening, between the Sophomores and seniors. The game ended in a 22-2 victory for the seniors.

The second game of the evening was played between the freshmen and juniors, and ended in 20-1 win for the juniors. The schedule of games for the week's tournament in which there is a keen local interest: Tuesday evening, Dec. 6: sophomores vs juniors, freshmen against seniors; Thursday, Dec. 8, 4:30 p. m. juniors vs seniors, freshmen vs sophomores; Thursday evening 7:30 p. m. freshmen vs juniors, sophomores vs seniors; Friday, Dec. 10, 4:30 p. m. sophomores vs juniors; freshmen vs seniors; Dec. 10, 7:30 p. m. sophomores vs juniors; juniors vs seniors; Monday, Dec. 13, 4:30 p. m. sophomores vs seniors; freshmen vs juniors same evening 7:30 p. m. freshmen vs seniors; sophomores vs juniors.

LOTS OF HUNTERS BUT FEW DEER REACH CITY

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Hunters from New London and community were drifting back to their homes last night tired from the unaccustomed work of trekking through the deep snows of northern woods. Car after car from points south of this city were pounding the trail back home all day Sunday and while some bore the antlered trophy of the hunt those that had a graceful Christmas tree strapped to cowl or running board were far in the majority.

Dr. Ed. Lyons and Dr. John Monstead, Rudolph Plotz, and others arrived late on Sunday afternoon, the former reporting a fine week near Eagle River where they were in camp with a party of thirteen. Dr. Monstead stated that the party he brought down their allotted buck. The two doctors stated, however, that their deer still happily frisk in the north woods. To date the only New London successful hunter is Albert Huebner, Liberty, who returned with a buck weighing about 150 pounds. Mr. Huebner states that he was with a party of seven and assigned to a runway where within an hour he had taken his quarry. Huebner hunted near Gleason.

Telephone Lineman Amazed At Quick Relief Brought By Dreco

Hortonville Citizen No Longer troubled with stomach distress or dizzy spells. Sleeps better.

We don't say that Dreco will snatch you from the grave, that chronic incurable diseases are wiped out by Dreco but we do say that if the vital organs are sluggish, slightly deranged, your system clogged with waste matter or you need a good bracing tonic, Dreco will do the work. Ask the Dreco Expert at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store about it.

Read how pleased Mr. David J. Halloran, who lives on Route 3, Hortonville, Wis., is after taking Dreco for only one week. Mr. Halloran, who is a linesman for the telephone company and also has a nice little farm which he works himself, says:

"One week of Dreco has done more for me than I ever thought possible and I'm confident that no one could take a better medicine."

"For sometime I had been suffering with a severe case of stomach trouble. Often my stomach felt like it was filled with red-hot coals I had heartburn so bad. Everything I ate soured and formed gas which bloated me out and pressed up toward my heart till I could hardly get my breath. I slept very poorly, suffered from bad dizzy spells and felt rundown in general. But, now, thanks to Dreco, I am

FIRE CAUSES LOSS OF $1,500 AT HOME OF C. M. JELLEFF

Flames Burst into His Face When He Opens Door to His Home

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Fire supposedly caused from a spark from the fireplace was discovered at the C. M. Jelleff residence, W. Washington-st., at 6 o'clock Monday evening. The damage is estimated at about $1,500 which is partly covered by insurance. The fire was discovered by Mr. Jelleff who returned after having had dinner down town. Mrs. Jelleff is visiting her daughter at Stoughton, Ill. Mr. Jelleff who has been keeping up the fire in the house had kindled a fire in the fireplace leaving it for the dinner hour. It is thought that a spark ignited either a basket of wood or the living room rug. When the owner reached home flames burst into his face when he opened the door.

The fire department under the direction of Chief C. J. Dean responded at once and put the fire under control. Furniture and rugs, woodwork and walls of the living room and hall and stairway were ruined. Heat and water damaged the second floor to considerable extent. The fire, having eaten its way between the walls and casings obstinately repulsed efforts of the fire crew. Two hours passed before the flames were under control.

TREE LADEN TRUCK DAMAGES BIG BUS

Driver of Truck, Stopped at Hortonville, Says He Didn't Know of Accident

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Harvey Graupman, driving a Grumman-Fritch International bus, while stopping at the corner of the South Pearl and Beacon avenue intersection on Sunday evening to let out passengers was struck by a passing Ford truck heavily loaded with Christmas trees. Overhanging trees broke a window in the rear of the bus, and the driver of the truck continued on his way. Graupman put in a call to Hortonville which resulted in the apprehension of the man who stated that he knew nothing of what had occurred.

Another incident of the same sort occurred when Frank Prah, who resides at Northport and works at the Borden Milk Products company was crowded over on Friday night, trees hitting his car with such force as to rip the curtains completely off one side of his touring car. The driver, apparently without knowledge of what he had done proceeded on.

FAMILY LAMENTS LOSS OF FOX HOUND PUP

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lasch, 11 E. Beacon-ave., are lamenting the loss of their full blooded fox hound dog pup which either strayed away or was taken away from their home Saturday morning. The pup was 7 months old and had become a great pet of the family. Every effort is being made to locate the dog but as yet no trace of him has been found.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Saves about $2

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is, pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and hoarseness.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guarafol, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Or, if you want to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, The Pinex Co., St. Wayne, Ind.

all of them the people are more prosperous than at any previous time. A system of good roads, education, general development in progress. The people are better governed than ever before and generally content.

In the Philippine Islands Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood has been Governor General for five years and has administered his office with tact and ability greatly to the success of the Philippine people. These are a proud and sensitive race, and we are making such progress with our cooperation that we can view the results of this experiment with great satisfaction. As we are attempting to assist this race toward self-government, we should look upon their wishes with great respect, granting their requests immediately when they are right, yet maintaining a frank firmness in refusing when they are wrong. We shall measure their progress in no small part by the acceptance of the terms of the organic law under which the islands are governed and their faithful observance of its provisions. Need exists for clarifying the duties of the auditor and declaring them to be what everyone had supposed they were. We have placed our own expenditures under the supervision of the Comptroller General. It is not likely that the expenditures in the Philippine Islands need less supervision than our own. The Governor General is hampered in the selection of subordinates by the necessity of securing a confirmation, which has oftentimes driven him to the expediency of using Army officers in work for which civilian experts would be much better fitted. Means should be provided for this and such other purposes as he may require out of the revenue which this Government now turns back to the Philippine treasury.

In order that the possessions in the Philippines are not seeming neglect, I have recently sent Col. Carmi A. Thompson to the island to make a survey in cooperation with the Governor General to suggest what might be done to improve conditions. Later, I may make a more extended report including recommendations. The economic development of the island is important. They ought not to be turned back to the people and be both practically self-governing and economically independent. Large areas are adaptable to the production of rubber. No one contemplates any time in the future either under the present or a more independent form of government when we should not assume some responsibility for their defense. For their economic advantage, for the employment of their people, and as a contribution to our power of defense which could be well understood without rubber. I believe this industry should be encouraged. It is especially adapted to the Philippine people themselves, who might cultivate it individually on a small acreage. It could be carried on extensively by American capital in a way to furnish employment at good wages. I am opposed to the promotion of any policy that does not provide for absolute freedom on the part of the earners and do not think we should undertake to give power for large holdings of land in the island against the opposition of the people of the locality. Any development of the islands must be solely with the first object of benefiting the people of the islands. At an early day, these possessions should be taken out from under all military control and administered entirely on the civil side of government.

NATIONAL DEFENSE

Our policy of national defense is not one of making war, but of insuring peace. The land and sea force of America, both in its domestic and foreign implications, is distinctly a peace force. It is an arm of the police power to guarantee order and the execution of the law at home and abroad to our citizens abroad. No self-respecting nation would neglect to provide an army and navy proportionate to the population and the extent of its territory and the dignity of the place which it occupies in the world. When it is considered that no navy in the world, with one exception, approaches ours and none surpasses it, that our Regular Army of about 115,000 men is the equal of any other like number of troops, that our entire permanent and reserve land and sea force trained and trained consists of a personnel of about 300,000, and that our annual appropriations are about $850,000,000 a year, expended under the direction of an exceedingly competent staff, it can not be said that our country is neglecting its national defense. It is true that a cult of disparagement exists, but that candid examination made by the Congress through its various committees has always reassured the country and demonstrated that it is maintaining the most adequate defensive force in the present years that it has ever supported in time of peace.

This general policy should be kept in effect. Here and there temporary changes may be made in personnel to meet requirements in other directions. Attention should be given to submarines, cruisers, and air forces. Particular points may need strengthening, but as a whole our military power is sufficient.

The one weak place in the whole line is our still untrained draftees. In any modern campaign the dollar are the shock troops. With a depleted treasury in the rear, no army can maintain itself in the field. A country loaded with debt is a country devoid of the first line of defense. Economy is the handmaid of preparedness. If we wish to be able to defend ourselves to the full extent of our power in the future, we shall discharge as soon as possible the financial burden of the last war. Otherwise we would face a crisis with a part of our capital resources already expended.

The amount and kind of our military equipment is preeminently a question for the decision of the Congress, after giving due consideration to the advice of military experts and the available public revenue. Nothing is more laudable than the cooperation of the agricultural and industrial resources of the country for the purpose of supplying the needs of a national defense in time of peril to a people engaged in these interests volunteered in a most self-sacrificing way, often at the nominal charge of a dollar a year. But the Army and Navy are not supported for the benefit of supply concerns: supply concerns are supported for the benefit of the Army and Navy. The distribution of orders on what is needed from different concerns for the purpose of keeping up equipment and organization is perfectly justified, but any attempt to prevail upon the Government to purchase beyond its needs ought not to be tolerated. It is eminently fair that those who deal with the Government should do so at a reasonable profit. However, public money is expended not that some one may profit by it, but in order to serve a public purpose.

While our policy of national defense will proceed in order that we may be independent and self-sufficient, I am opposed to engaging in any attempt at competitive armaments. No matter how much or how little some other country may feel constrained to provide, we can well afford to set the example, not of being dictated to by others, but of adopting our own standards. We are strong enough to pursue that method, which will be a most wholesome model for the rest of the world. We are eminently peaceful, but we are by no means weak. While we submit our differences with others, not to the adjudication of force, but of reason, it is not because we are unable to defend our rights. While we are doing our best to eliminate all resort to war for the purpose of settling disputes, we can not but remember that the peace we now enjoy had to be won by the sword and that if the rights of our country are to be defended we can not rely for that purpose upon anyone but ourselves. We can not shrink from the responsibility, which is the first requisite of all government, of preserving its own integrity and maintaining the rights of its own citizens. It is only in accordance with these principles that we can establish any lasting foundations for an honorable and permanent peace.

It is for these reasons that our country, like any other country, proposes to provide itself with an army and navy supported by a merchant marine. Yet these are not for competition with any other power. For years we have besought nations to disarm. We have recently expressed our willingness at Geneva to enter into treaties for the limitation of all types of warships according to the ratio adopted at the Washington Conference. This offer is still pending. While we are and shall continue to be armed it is not as a menace, but rather a common assurance of tranquility to all the peace-loving people of the world. For us to do any less would be to disregard our obligations, evade our responsibilities, and jeopardize our national honor.

VETERANS

This country, not only because it is bound by honor but because of the satisfaction derived from it, has always lavished its bounty upon its veterans. For years a service pension has been bestowed upon the Grand Army on reaching a certain age. Like provision has been made for the survivors of the Spanish War. A liberal future compensation has been granted to all the veterans of the World War. But it is in the case of the disabled and the dependents being well administered by the Veterans' Bureau. The main unfinished feature is that of hospitalization. This requirement is being rapidly met. Various veteran bodies will present to you recommendations which should have your careful consideration. At the last session we increased our annual expenditure for pensions and relief on account of the veterans of three wars. While I approve of proper relief for all suffering, I do not favor any further extension of our pension system at this time.

ALIEN PROPERTY

We still have in the possession of the Government the alien property. It has always been the policy of America to hold that private enemy property should not be confiscated in time of war. This principle we have scrupulously observed. As this property is security for the claims of our citizens and our Government, we can not relinquish it without adequate provision for their reimbursement. Legislation for the return of this property, accompanied by suitable provisions for the liquidation of the claims of our citizens and our Treasury, should be adopted. If our Government releases to foreigners the security which it holds for Americans, it must at the same time provide satisfactory safeguards for meeting American claims.

PROHIBITION

The duly authorized public authorities of the country have made prohibition the law of the land. Acting under the Constitution, the Congress and the legislatures of practically all the States have adopted legislation for its enforcement. Some abuses have arisen which require reform. Under the law the National Government has entrusted to the Treasury Department the special duty of regulation and enforcement. Such supplementary legislation as it requires to meet existing conditions should be carefully and speedily enacted. Failure to support the Constitution and observe the law ought not to be tolerated by public opinion. Especially those in public places, who have taken their oath to support the Constitution, ought to be most scrupulous in its observance. Officers of the Department of Justice throughout the country should be vigilant in enforcing the law, but local authorities, which had always been mainly responsible for the enforcement of law in relation to intoxicating liquor, ought not to seek evasion by attempting to shift the burden wholly upon the Federal agencies. Under the Constitution the States are jointly charged with the Nation in providing for the enforcement of the prohibition amendment. Some people do not like the amendment, some do not like other parts of the Constitution, some do not like any of it. Those who entertain such sentiments have a perfect right to seek through legal methods for a change. But for any of our inhabitants to observe such parts of the Constitution as they like, while disregarding others, is a doctrine that would break down all protection of life and property and destroy the American system of ordered liberty.

The foreign policy of this Government is well known. It is one of peace based on that mutual respect that arises from mutual regard for international rights and the discharge of international obligations. It is our purpose to promote understanding and good will between ourselves and all other people. The American people are altogether lacking in an appreciation of the tremendous good fortune that surrounds their international position. We have no traditional enemies. We are not embarrassed over any disputed territory. We have no possessions that are coveted by others; they have none that are coveted by us. Our borders are unfortified. We fear no one; no one fears us. All the world knows that the whole extent of our influence is against war and in favor of peace, against the rule of negotiation, arbitration, and adjudication as a method of adjusting international differences. We look with disfavor upon all aggressive warfare. We are strong enough so that no one can charge us with weakness if we are slow to anger. Our place is sufficiently established so that we need not be sensitive over trifles. Our resources are large enough so that we can afford to be generous. At the same time we are a nation among nations and recognize a responsibility not only to ourselves, but in the interest of a stable and better civilization, to protect and defend the international rights of our Government and our citizens.

It is because of our historical attachment and the generation of comparative indifference toward us by other nations that our public is inclined to consider altogether too seriously the reports that we are criticized abroad. We never had a larger foreign trade than at the present time. Our good offices were never more sought and the necessity for our assistance and cooperation was never more universally declared in any time of peace. We know that the sentiments which we entertain toward all other nations are those of the most sincere friendship and good will and of an unbounded desire to help, which we are perfectly willing to have judged by their fruits. In our efforts to adjust our international obligations we have met with a response which, when everything is considered, I believe history will record as a most remarkable and gratifying demonstration of the sanctity with which civilized nations undertake to discharge their mutual obligations. Debt settlements have been negotiated with practically all of those who owed us and all finally adjusted but two, which are in process of ratification. When

DEPARTMENT REPORTS

Many important subjects which it is impossible even to mention in the short space of an annual message you will find fully discussed in the departmental reports. A failure to include them here is not to be taken as indicating any lack of interest, but only a disinclination to state inadequately what has been much better done in other documents.

THE CAPITAL CITY

We are embarking on an ambitious building program for the city of Washington. The Memorial Bridge is under way with all that it holds for use and beauty. New buildings are soon contemplated. This program should represent the best that exists in the art and science of architecture. Into these structures which must be considered as a permanent nature ought to go the aspirations of the Nation, its ideals expressed in forms of beauty. If our country wishes to compete with others, let it not be in the support of armaments but in the making of a beautiful capital city. Let it express the soul of America. Whenever an American is at the seat of his Government, however traveled and cultured he may be, he ought to find a city of stately proportion, symmetrically laid out and adorned with the best that there is in architecture and still his patriotic pride. In the coming years Washington should be not only the art center of our own country but the art center of the world. Around it should center all that is best in science, in learning, in letters and in art. These are the results that justify the creation of those national resources with which we have been favored.

AMERICAN IDEALS

America is not and must not be a country without ideals. They are useless if they are only visionary; they are only valuable if they are practical. A nation can not dwell constantly on the mountain tops. It has to be replenished and sustained through the ceaseless toil of the less inspiring valleys. But its face ought always to be turned upward, its vision ought always to be fixed on high.

We need ideals that can be followed in daily life, that can be translated into terms of the home. We can not expect to be relieved from toil, but we do expect to divest it of degrading conditions. Work is honorable; it is entitled to an honorable recompense. We must strive mightily, but having striven there is a defect in our political and social system if we are not in general rewarded with success. To relieve the hand of the burdens that come from the war, to release to the individual more of the fruits of his own industry, to increase his earning capacity and decrease his hours of labor, to enlarge the circle of his vision through good roads and better transportation, to place before him the opportunity for education both in science and in art, to leave him free to receive the inspiration of religion, all these are ideals which deliver him from the servitude of the body and exalt him to the service of the soul. Through this emancipation from the things that are material, we broaden our dominion over the things that are spiritual.

Work is honorable; it is entitled to an honorable recompense. We must strive mightily, but having striven there is a defect in our political and social system if we are not in general rewarded with success. To relieve the hand of the burdens that come from the war, to release to the individual more of the fruits of his own industry, to increase his earning capacity and decrease his hours of labor, to enlarge the circle of his vision through good roads and better transportation, to place before him the opportunity for education both in science and in art, to leave him free to receive the inspiration of religion, all these are ideals which deliver him from the servitude of the body and exalt him to the service of the soul. Through this emancipation from the things that are material, we broaden our dominion over the things that are spiritual.

DEPARTMENT REPORTS

Many important subjects which it is impossible even to mention in the short space of an annual message you will find fully discussed in the departmental reports. A failure to include them here is not to be taken as indicating any lack of interest, but only a disinclination to state inadequately what has been much better done in other documents.

THE CAPITAL CITY

We are embarking on an ambitious building program for the city of Washington. The Memorial Bridge is under way with all that it holds for use and beauty. New buildings are soon contemplated. This program should represent the best that exists in the art and science of architecture. Into these structures which must be considered as a permanent nature ought to go the aspirations of the Nation, its ideals expressed in forms of beauty. If our country wishes to compete with others, let it not be in the support of armaments but in the making of a beautiful capital city. Let it express the soul of America. Whenever an American is at the seat of his Government, however traveled and cultured he may be, he ought to find a city of stately proportion, symmetrically laid out and adorned with the best that there is in architecture and still his patriotic pride. In the coming years Washington should be not only the art center of our own country but the art center of the world. Around it should center all that is best in science, in learning, in letters and in art. These are the results that justify the creation of those national resources with which we have been favored.

AMERICAN IDEALS

America is not and must not be a country without ideals. They are useless if they are only visionary; they are only valuable if they are practical. A nation can not dwell constantly on the mountain tops. It has to be replenished and sustained through the ceaseless toil of the less inspiring valleys. But its face ought always to be turned upward, its vision ought always to be fixed on high.

We need ideals that can be followed in daily life, that can be translated into terms of the home. We can not expect to be relieved from toil, but we do expect to divest it of degrading conditions. Work is honorable; it is entitled to an honorable recompense. We must strive mightily, but having striven there is a defect in our political and social system if we are not in general rewarded with success. # INVITE PUBLIC TO HEAR ADDRESSES BY DENTAL EXPERT

Member of Pennsylvania
Health Board Gives Six
Talks Here Tomorrow

Dr. C. J. Hollister of Harrisburg, Pa., one of the leading dental health authorities in the United States, will give six talks in Appleton Wednesday under the auspices of the Appleton Dental Study club. The public is invited to all of these addresses, the club announced.

The first talk will be at Wilson Junior high school at 10 o'clock in the morning. Others will be the Jefferson school at 11:45; Kiwanis club at the Hotel Northern at 12:15; Appleton high school at 2 o'clock in the afternoon; Roosevelt school at 8:15; and Appleton Women's club and First Ward Parent Teachers association meeting at the school at 7:30 in the evening.

The study club will entertain the visitors at dinner at the Conway hotel Wednesday evening, but no formal talk will be given.

Dr. Hollister is a member of the state board of health of Pennsylvania. The subjects of some of his talks will be: What to Eat and How to Eat It, How to Prevent Dental Disorders, and Oral Hygiene as a Measure of Helping Reduce Taxes.

Seats For Theatre

Louis Lutz, resident manager of Fischer's Appleton theatre is in Milwaukee to arrange for programs for the theatre during the spring months. The manager recently purchased new seats for the establishment and these will be installed soon, it was said.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Greenwood of Portland, Ore., left Saturday for the west after visiting for a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hackleman.

MUSIC PROGRAM AT MEETING OF EAGLES LODGE

A musical program has been arranged for the meeting of Fraternal Order of Eagles at 8 o'clock Wednesday night in Eagle hall when James Tschin of New York, a representative of the organization department of the grand lodge will be a guest and will give a talk.

A demonstration of the operation of the switchboard at the local exchange will be given by the Wisconsin Telephone Co. A plate lunch will be served after the meeting and an attendance prize will be given. The committee in charge of arranging for the meeting consists of Frank Schneider, Harry Welhouse and Roy Koester.

MRS. WERTHEIMER READS POETRY AT CLUB MEETING

Mrs. M. A. Wertheimer of Kaukauna will read poetry at the general meeting of the Appleton Women's club Thursday afternoon. The telephone switchboard demonstration given before the schools, clubs and lodges during the past month by H. M. Fellows, manager of the Appleton office of the Wisconsin Telephone Co., will precede the readings.

Members of the board of directors will be responsible for preparing the luncheon. Reservation should be telephoned to the club by Wednesday noon. Mrs. S. C. Shannon, executive secretary, announced.

Child Breaks Arm

Julia DeVoe, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. DeVoe, 621 S. Outacamest, fractured her shoulder when she was tripped by another child while playing at the Jefferson school ground. The little girl has been removed from St. Elizabeth hospital to her home where she will be confined for the rest of the week.

HOLD UP PLANS FOR VOLLEYBALL MEET

Meeting at Green Bay Unable to Determine Time and Place for Tourney

Plans for volleyball tournaments for the winter and spring in the northeastern district of the Wisconsin Y. M. C. A., which were to be made at a meeting of the district volleyball committee Saturday at the Green Bay association, were held up because of absence of representatives of the Wausau association. Three large associations, Wausau, Appleton and Green Bay, and the surrounding territory are included in the district.

Appleton was represented at the meeting by A. P. Jensen, physical director, and George H. Packard, chairman of the local volleyball committee. Russell Parker, physical director, and R. J. Laubenstein, committee chairman represented Green Bay. It was decided to meet again in Appleton on Saturday, Jan. 8. An effort will be made to have a Wausau man at the meeting.

Spalding official volleyball rules for 1925-27 were adopted for the district. Discussion of the merits of volleyball, centering around "volley ball for all", occupied most of the session. The game should give all players, good and fair, a chance, it was decided. The good players should be in one group and the fair in another so that competition would be equal. The good player also should be willing to devote some of his time to aid the other fellow.

The social and educational value of the game was discussed.

The district tournament was discussed but no date was set because of Wausau's absence and the fact that no date had yet been set for the state meet. No place was set for the district tourney. Mr. Packard announced that he would choose his local committee within the next two weeks.

MISSION CLUB WOMEN DECORATE BAZAAR BOOTHS

The Women's Missionary society and the Young Women's Missionary society of Trinity English Lutheran church will meet at 7:30 Tuesday evening at the church to decorate the booths for the Christmas bazaar to be held Thursday. The young women will have charge of a handkerchief booth and the Women's society will be in charge of other booths. Members are to bring articles to the meeting Tuesday evening for marking. A candy booth will be conducted by the junior choir.

A S K CHILDREN TO PARTY GIVEN BY GIRL SCOUTS

Invitations will be distributed Wednesday to children of Appleton who will be entertained at a Christmas party by the local Girl Scouts association at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon Dec. 15. The place of the party has not been determined.

Miss Agnes Vanneman, Appleton director of the association, said.

Santa Claus will be at the party, and Christmas games, stunts and presents will be a part of the program. Mrs. Joseph Koffend, Jr., will lead the singing of holiday songs. The party is an annual project of the troops.

KIWANIANS HOSTS AT JOINT MEETING OF CLUBS

What To Eat and How To Eat It will be the subject of an address by Dr. J. B. Hollister of Harrisburg, Pa. at a joint meeting of the Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and Y's Mens clubs at Hotel Northern Wednesday noon. The Kiwanis club is sponsoring the meeting. Dr. Hollister is a noted dental authority and a member of the Pennsylvania State Board of Health.
